19th Asian Games Hangzhou 2022

Restrictions, lockdown and postponement

The 19th Asian Games, slated to be held in Hangzhou from September 10-25, has been indefinitely pushed back

RESULT OF CHINA'S ZERO-COVID POLICY

China is pursuing a zero-Covid policy. Cities like Shanghai have been in lockdown for more than a month and Beijing may yet enter one as China battles the Omicron variant of the coronavirus

2ND ONLY IN SIZE TO THE OLYMPICS

The sheer scale of the Asian Games, second only in size to the Olympics, may have also posed a big challenge to the organisers. There was speculation that the event may be held in a closed loop system but they decided not to go ahead with it

IMPLICATIONS

In the short term, it may not affect the athletes as preparations will continue for the CWG in July end. With multiple World Championships, World Cups and Olympic qualifiers in 2023, it will be interesting to see how organisers will find a new window

September 2023

Organisers may re-schedule it to September 2023 but that will be decided after talks with International Federations

HACKERS TARGET NIMHANS, BUT DATA REMAINS SAFE

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

IN a recent ransomware attack at the National Institute of Mental Health & Neuro Sciences (NIMHANS), "no sensitive information or patient data was compromised," said Director NIMHANS Pratima Murthy.

Setting aside concerns of leakage of data, she said the ransomware was detected early on March 22, following which NIMHANS "timely plugged in all the loopholes and made immediate and necessary changes to secure our systems. No sensitive data including patient data has been compromised," she added.

The premier mental health institute was recently a victim of ransomware attack, in which many of its systems were found to be compromised and files encrypted by some unknown hackers, who demanded a ransom of $5,000 in Bitcoins.

According to informed sources, NIMHANS uses e-hospital software developed by the National Informatics Centre (NIC), which is hosted on the institute's server. "We have got endpoint protection at the server level software. For all the Outpatient Departments (OPDs), the institute uses Thin Client – a watered down version of desktop that runs from resources stored on a central server instead of a localised hard drive. Hence all OPD data was safe. So far as the inpatient data is concerned, it was protected because that is on a LAN connection with minimum access to the Internet. The patient data back-up is done daily and every six hours for laboratory reports," said sources.

"However, some faculty members, who found their system to be infected may have lost their manuscripts or other documents because of encryption. Following the cyber-attack, all e-mail communications at NIMHANS are being shifted to nimhans.ac.in server including those for students," added the sources.

Giving details of the cyber security attack, sources said that on March 22, a faculty member complained to the NIMHANS IT Cell that they were unable to open their files. Later, they found that many other systems were also compromised and that's when they realised that it was not an issue of malware. "We immediately got in touch with the Indian Computer Emergency Response Team (CERT-IN), NIC and an internationally well-known third party to conduct a forensic audit of the cyber security attack. They responded and within an hour they were able to detect the issue. Meanwhile, NIMHANS gave a written complaint to the cyber-crime cell, South division regarding the attack on March 29," said sources on condition of anonymity. "The delay in giving a written complaint was because we had to gather the logs from each system," said sources.

Fresh scandal rocks MF sector

Two fund managers of Axis MF accused of using inside information for personal gains

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

IN yet another shocker to mutual fund investors, who are yet to recover fully from the alleged irregularities by Franklin Templeton's top executives, Axis Mutual Fund on Friday suspended two fund managers for serious violations.

According to sources, the two fund managers — Viresh Joshi and Deepak Agarwal — made wrongful gains through 'front running'. The jargon means trading stock or any other financial asset by a broker, who has inside knowledge of a future transaction that could affect price substantially. It is done by placing higher bids than current market price for a share and a lower ask (sell order) with a broker. The broker, then, passes on the difference to the managers off the books, in cash or in kind.

Mutual fund insiders say the flamboyant lifestyle of one of the fund managers, who drives a limited-edition Lamborghini and owns several houses in Mumbai, caught the attention of the fund house, which began investigating the matter.

Axis MF, India's seventh largest mutual fund by assets, said it has been conducting a suo motu investigation since February 2022. "The AMC has used reputed external advisors to aid the investigation. As part of the process, two fund managers have been suspended pending investigation of potential irregularities," its statement read. It, however, dismissed rumours that its MD and CEO Chandresh Nigam was also involved in the irregularities.

Markets regulator Sebi is also said to be probing the matter but it couldn't be confirmed immediately.

According to a May 4 notice by Axis Mutual Fund, Joshi and Agarwal have been dropped as fund managers of four ETF schemes (Axis Consumption, Axis Banking, Axis Nifty, and Axis Technology) and three funds (Axis Arbitrage Fund, Axis Quant Fund and Axis Value Fund).

BJP leader held, freed after high drama in three states

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A high-voltage khaki versus khaki drama kept playing out right through Friday across three states, shining the light on partisan police action depending on the political parties they were answerable to.

Act One opened with the police from AAP-ruled Punjab arresting BJP leader Tejinder Pal Bagga from his home in Delhi, citing an FIR in Mohali based on his sharp comments against Delhi Chief Minister and AAP boss Arvind Kejriwal.

When the Punjab Police team was on its way to Mohali via BJP-ruled Haryana, it was intercepted by the state police following an alert from its Delhi counterpart of Bagga's 'abduction'. That was Act Two. The interception happened near Khanpur Kolian village in Kurukshetra. They took the team to a police station near Pipli.

The final Act was Bagga's handover to the Delhi Police by Haryana upon their arrival a few hours later. The Delhi Police had filed a case against the Punjab Police team under various IPC sections, including those on abduction, robbery, and trespass, based on a complaint from Bagga's dad.

For their part, the Punjab Police said they were following due process as Bagga had failed to respond to five notices under Section 41A of the CrPC served on him on April 9, 11, 15, 22 and 28 to join the investigation.

Mohali's senior superintendent of police wrote to his counterpart in Kurukshetra, seeking the release of the police team and Bagga, but to no avail. The Punjab government also moved the high court but it did not pass any interim order.

Delhi leaders sought ₹2.5Kcr to make me CM, says Yatnal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

I have worked as Union minister under a tall leader like Atal Bihari Vajpayee and was closely associated with leaders like LK Advani, Rajnath Singh and Arun Jaitley. Despite knowing my profile, they asked me to arrange ₹2,500 crore for the chief minister's post.

Basangouda Patil Yatnal, BJP MLA from Vijayapura

FORMER Union minister Basangouda Patil Yatnal, the BJP MLA from Vijayapura, stirred yet another controversy by stating that he was asked to arrange Rs 2,500 crore to become a chief minister. He said some leaders from New Delhi met him and gave him the offer, Yatnal said while addressing a programme at Ramdurg on Friday.

Warning people not to join politics and spoil their lives, he said, "There are many cheats in politics who will assure you that they will take you to New Delhi and introduce you to top leaders like Sonia Gandhi, JP Nadda, etc. Don't fall into their trap."

Yatnal said he was stunned when he was asked to shell out Rs 2,500 crore to become a chief minister. "I have worked as Union minister under a tall leader like Atal Bihari Vajpayee and was closely associated with leaders like LK Advani, Rajnath Singh and Arun Jaitley. Despite knowing my profile, they asked me to arrange Rs 2,500 crore for the chief minister's post," he added.

Later, Yatnal hit out at former chief minister BS Yediyurappa, saying the latter did not induct him into the cabinet fearing that it would affect the prospects of his son Vijayendra.

"I had told Yediyurappa then that I will not enter his chamber or go to Kaveri (the CM's residence) till he remained chief minister. Later, Basavaraj Bommai asked me to meet him when he became the CM. In a closed-door discussion, Bommai admitted that he became CM only because of me (Yatnal)," he added.

Yatnal said that though Bommai assured him of a cabinet berth, he refused, but demanded the release of Rs 10,000 crore to ensure enough water supply to the Vijayapura region. P6

Got Bluetooth device at exam centre: 2 accused

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru, Kalaburagi

TWO PSI CET aspirants, arrested by the Criminal Investigation Department (CID), have confessed that they got Bluetooth devices soon after entering the exam centres and the investigators are now gathering details of invigilators of exam centres across the state.

Meanwhile, the CID took Karnataka State Reserve Police (KSRP) DySP Vaijinath Revoor into custody on Friday evening. He was taken for interrogation to a temporary CID office at Aiwan-E-Shahi Guest House in Kalaburgi.

Vaijinath from Mashal of Afzalpur taluk allegedly helped RD Patil, one of the kingpins of the scam, in getting candidates and during the exam malpractice. Another DySP was arrested on Thursday after two days of intense grilling.

A senior CID officer said the two aspirants, who are among the 22 named in the FIR, were given correct answers to the questions over Bluetooth devices. Later, evaluators had corrected mistakes by overwriting on OMR sheets, which was found during the analysis conducted by FSL. P6

At Malpe beach, you can walk on the sea

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Udupi

WALKING over waves is possible now at Malpe beach as a floating bridge, the first in the state, has come up here. The 100-metre-long and 3-metre-wide bridge can be easily relocated as it is not a permanently attached structure.

Udupi MLA K Raghupathi Bhat inaugurated the bridge on Friday. At a time, 100 visitors will be allowed to walk on the bridge and 10 lifeguards will be deputed to provide security to tourists. Each tourist will be allowed to stay on the bridge for 15 minutes.

Following recent tragedies at St Mary's Island, Deputy Commissioner M Kurma Rao and other officials held a meeting and reviewed the security of the bridge. POTHOLES ARE NOT HOLES BUT PITS, SAYS NEW BBMP CHIEF

Girinath says agency will focus on infrastructure and solid waste management

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE newly appointed Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath described the potholes in the city as not holes but pits, which requires a lot of attention and time to ensure that city roads are free of potholes.

Soon after taking over charge from Gaurav Gupta, he the told The New Indian Express that apart from potholes, his priority will be to ensure that the citizens feedback system is strengthened. "There should not be any grievance and if there is, it will have to ascertained why it is there and why it has not yet been addressed. Also my top priority, as a citizen will be to ensure that the water logging and drainage problems are resolved, along with the city's garbage management," he said. Later, during media interaction, Girinath said that his top priority will be to ensure that there are no rain-related problems in the city and that for these issues, short-term immediate measures will be taken.

In his list of priority, the next in line he said would be to ensure that Covid-19 situation is under control and the number of cases remain low.

Focus would also be given to infrastructure and solid waste management.

Speaking to media, he said that the local city corporation is like a small government working for the people. It has direct connection and contact with people. So, the first challenge is to have a responsive government which people can immediately approach and get their grievance resolved. The work force of around 50,000 officials should be on the field and resolve people's problems. All officials should be available for citizens all the time.

"Since the corporation is associated with people, whatever work is done will be seen closely. Whether it is good or bad, it will be assessed and it will come back to us. So there is a need be sincere in work and change will take time. All the suggestions given will be incorporated and that corrections will be done," he said. He added that there is a need to create an infrastructure plan which is underway to ensure that water does not gush into homes.

Former BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta (right) hands over charge to Tushar Girinath in Bengaluru on Friday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Girinath's first task: No rain woes

Bengaluru: Soon after taking charge, newly appointed BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath got down to brass tacks, and ordered that 63 temporary control rooms and rain gauges be set up immediately, equipped with staff and machinery. At a review meeting on Friday, he directed officials to ensure that rain-related problems are prevented, for which all departments should work in coordination. Nine control rooms, including those at eight zonal offices and the head office, must be active during the monsoon, Girinath said. He told officials to work on disaster management in their areas, and to visit each site after a complaint is reported. "The most sensitive areas must be immediately identified and silt in drains should be cleared. Safety equipment should be provided to all personnel during rainy days," Girinath said. On Covid-19 management, Girinath said testing should be increased, and care taken as cases are increasing.

TIMINGS CHANGED FOUR TIMES

The timing to hand over charge from the 69th BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta to the 70th Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath, was changed four times on Friday morning. The initial timing was slated to be 9.45 am, after which it was changed to 11 am and then 12.30 pm and then to 12.35 pm. BBMP officials said the timing had to be repeatedly revised because Gupta was part of the inauguration of Anantha Prerana Kendra at late BJP leader Ananth Kumar's office in Jayanagar, where Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot were present.

Health department to take over 51 centres

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a significant move to revamp primary health care services in Bengaluru, Urban Primary Health Centres (UPHCs) and Community Health Centres (CHCs) currently under BBMP's control will be taken over by Health and Family Welfare Department. BBMP which had financial and administrative control over these health centres will now be under the supervision of the health department.

As per the state government order on Friday, a total of 51 health centres will taken over by health department, including 35 UPHCs listed under National Urban Health Mission, 14 unlisted UPHCs and 2 CHCs. The staff recruited by BBMP and equipment procured by BBMP will also be transferred to health department. The move is aimed at streamlining health care services across the state, State health department officials said.

Explaining the decision, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said, "The public health care services provided by the government should be similar across all facilities. Whether it is urban or rural area, the quality of health care should be the same across the state. The move to bring back health centres under the purview of health department will help us integrate the health programmes of Centre and State governments and ensure effective implementation. The decision will also enable better management of PHCs and streamlining of administrative issues leading to improved service to citizens, especially the urban poor," he said.

'Speeding up infra works on city outskirts essential'

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

GAURAV Gupta, the outgoing Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner, said that speeding up infrastructure works on the city outskirts is essential to tackle the rising population of the city and the soaring number of vehicles.

"While many things have been done to improve the city, there are some things which need to be sped up. There is a need to invest more time and energy on improving the arterial roads. In case of city outskirts, as work on laying sewer and water lines are ongoing, it needs to done rapidly. In city central, already many works are undergoing including Smart City, but a little more can be done," he told The New Indian Express, soon after handing over charge to Tushar Girinath.

On his next posting to Infrastructure Development Department, Gupta said that he will be working on railway and airport projects across the state, including sub-urban rail, where more focus would be given to Bengaluru.

Listing out some of his achievements, he said that the issue of road cutting which was stretching to around 2,000 km for laying various lines is now nearing completion and will be completed before monsoon. The process of revenue collection has been simplified and record tax collection was done last year. He added that problems which were listed pertaining to drains, solid waste management and monsoon preparedness have been mitigated over the years. The other two prime agencies- Bescom and BWSSB- are also working together in many areas.On the issue of contractors alleging BBMP of taking 40 per cent commission, Gupta said that he had told them to give the names of those seeking bribe so that stern action could be taken against them.

Staff asked to disable LAN connections

THE IT Cell of the institute sent a communication to its faculty informing them that the institute was victimised by malware triggered by a virus contained in a mail received via Windows 7 or 8.

"The employees were asked to disable their LAN connections to prevent malware from spreading to other machines, immediate steps were taken to install anti-virus software and all passwords were changed," added the sources.

The FIR (0383/2022) in the ransomware attack case was, however, filed a month later, on April 30.

Explaining the delay in filing the FIR, sources pointed out that the immediate concern of the institute was to "secure the systems. There are around 1,500 systems in the institute. All of them had to be forensically audited", said sources.

NIMHANS has nominated IT champions in every department/section, and awareness programmes are being conducted on cyber security.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

07th May : I'd like to talk about those two tough planets, Saturn and Pluto. If you look around and see upheaval in the world then this is why. Both planets stir up deep currents, bringing long-forgotten desires to the surface. Our task, as rational human beings, is to take the path of compassion and care for others, and turn problems into opportunities.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You're liable to shy away from social engagem-ents or emotional risks. It seems as if what will suit you most now are discreet get-togethers, peace and quiet. Above all you need to feel loved. You draw your strength from partners' goodwill, sympathy and support.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Today is the day that Mercury, which signifies your deepest thoughts and imaginings, adopts a new set of alignments. This is an astrological way of saying that, before you turn a corner, you would do well to pause for a moment and take stock - and also take an extra look at the details.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You have been more prone than most people to vague suspicions and strange imaginings. However, I believe that from now on all mysteries will be cleared up and most of your questions answered. You should be relieved that a partner's opposition has now subsided.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Stick up for yourself! You ought to be ringing the changes with increasing confidence and determination. Everything you do at the moment, however personal or trivial, will stand you in good stead when the planetary whirlwind picks up speed again in a few weeks.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Shopping sprees are on the agenda thanks to the Moon's relationship with Mars. You don't have to take partners' assertions as the absolute truth - make a few waves and insist your ideas are taken into account. You might also find yourself footing the bill for a social outing.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Much the same advice applies today as yesterday - relax and indulge yourself. There's plenty of scope for fun, so please don't succumb to the general mood of selfishness or make unnecessary emotional demands on partners. If you're tempted to argue over a principle then stop and think: you might just be wrong.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Your traditional ways of doing things have proved remarkably effective. If there's a Libran motto, it must be 'first among equals'. You are cleverly able to give the illusion that everyone's interests are being respected while in fact you're getting your own way. Clever old you!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You seem to have a much better idea of the reasons for recent upsets than other people. The Moon is defending your interests, teaching you that it is all right to be a sensitive Scorpio. For once, the world should be marching in step with you, and you should be the one who calls the tune.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The Moon, planet of emotion, is linking up with Mars, ruler of active change. Even long-established ties or associations have to alter in some way, and you must realise that there is simply no point in endeavouring to turn the clock back. You have to face the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
At a time when some people still seem determined to argue, you can either enter the fray or remain aloof. Either way, try to prove by your statements and actions just how spiritually advanced and mature you are. Travel stars look just fine. Trips to sentimental places will please.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There is no earthly reason why you should be the one to fork out when other people are short of cash. Still, seeing as this is an extravagant moment, you may as well spend money where it's needed. If you're entertaining friends, then your plans may require brief trips or extra phone calls.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You suspect someone of betraying your trust, but you may have misread the situation. Although you are the most loyal and staunchest of companions, you won't stick around for long if you're not appreciated. And I can think of no good reason why you should!

With over 10L consultations, online system easing mental health access

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

HEALTH Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Friday said Karnataka has conducted over 10 lakh consultations through E-Manas online mental healthcare management system, which is easing mental health access to patients. It includes tele-consultations to migrants, doctors and healthcare workers who were affected during the pandemic, he said.

At the three-day 14th "Swastya Chintan Shivir", hosted by the Central Council of Health and Family Welfare (CCHFW), the apex advisory body for Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (MoHFW) held at Kevadia, Gujarat, Sudhakar told Union Minister Mansukh Mandaviya that Karnataka will integrate E-Manas with other platforms, including Ayushman Bharath-Arogya Karnataka, Karnataka Private Medical Establishment Directories and NIC's (National Informatics Center) E-Hospital framework.

Through Mano Chaitanya Clinic, mental health professionals went from house to house to counsel Covid patients. Also, 27 lakh Covid patients were tele-counseled with help from NIMHANS

Dr K Sudhakar, Health Minister

E-Manas, developed by Karnataka, was launched in June 2020 to help people with mental issues and their data is secure. E-Manas is a mobile-compatible and easy-to-use software, which can be rolled out across the country, he added.

When Covid began, the government observed fear, apprehension and stigma among patients, with some taking their own lives. Through Mano Chaitanya Clinic, mental health professionals went from house to house to counsel Covid patients. Also, 27 lakh Covid patients were tele-counseled with help from NIMHANS, he said.

Other programmes taken up by the state to address mental health issues include 'Mathru Chaitanya' that provides counselling to pregnant and lactating women, 'Manasadhara' that provides day care rehabilitation to those recovering from mental illnesses, 'Dawa and Dua' that combines faith healing along with medications. The Health Department is working with NIMHANS to train PHC doctors to treat mental health conditions, he added.

Aasha tried to run after spotting plastic bag

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

"AFTER my father dropped me at 8.30am on April 28, I was waiting at the door of my office on the first floor, since my colleagues had not yet arrived. As I waited, Nagesh approached me, holding something in a plastic bag. Nagesh had been following me since April 24, and forcing me to accept his proposal. On April 27, he had followed me to office around 9am and threatened me to marry him, or he would ensure that no one would marry me. So the moment I saw him, I tried to run down the stairs. Nagesh followed me and threw acid on me. I immediately called my father and asked him to come to the spot, and he rushed me to hospital in an ambulance," acid attack victim Aasha (name changed) narrated her ordeal, while giving her statement to police.

Her uncle Sundresh said that Aasha had also recalled how Nagesh, who was a tenant in her aunt's house seven years ago, used to harass her. After she declined his proposal, he remained silent, but began troubling her again.

"After Nagesh threatened me on April 27, I told my aunt and she called Nagesh's elder brother and informed him. He said he would advise his brother to mend his ways. But the next day, he came with the intention of murder and poured acid on me," she said.

HC: SANCTION MUST TO PROSECUTE NOTARIES, LAWYERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court said that sanction by the state or central government is necessary to prosecute an advocate or notary if cases are registered against them for any lapses. Justice K Natarajan passed the order while quashing criminal proceedings against two notaries -- Praveen Kumar Adyapady and Ishwara Poojary from Mangaluru, as they were initiated without obtaining sanction.

The notaries were charged by Women's Police Station under the provisions of IPC, POCSO Act and Child Marriage Restraint Act, for allegedly signing an agreement of declaration to help an accused by manipulating the age of the victim.

"After looking at the documents produced by parties, of course while discharging duty, they have signed and given declarations in the document produced by the parties but it cannot be said, these petitioners had intentionally colluded with the other accused persons and signed agreement of declaration for helping the accused no. 1 by manipulating the age of the victim. That apart, as per Section 13 of the Notaries Act, there is a bar on taking cognizance for offences committed by the advocate and notary. Under the Notaries Act, they have to obtain the permission of the central government or state government for filing chargesheet and taking cognizance," the court said. The court further said the petitioners are said to be Notaries of the central government. Such being the case, as per Section 13 of the Notaries Act, sanction is necessary or permission is necessary before filing chargesheet.

Confirm if affidavits are filed with plaints: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court said that magistrates have to confirm before entertaining a private complaint whether an affidavit is filed along with the complaint and that the complainant was left without options but to knock their doors for seeking directions to register the complaints and refer them for investigation.

If not, the time has come to 'nip frivolous registration of crime, in its bud', the court added.

This order came as the high court is flooded with cases challenging directions under Section 156(3) of the CrPC by the magistrates referring those cases for investigation by the jurisdictional police on a private complaints being filed without accompanying affidavits. Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order while allowing the petitions filed by B Sheshanna and others, questioning the orders passed by the magistrate over contract on lifting water from Tungabhadra river under Lift Irrigation Scheme, near Holaluru village of Shivamogga district to register a private complaint invoking Section 200 of CrPC against the petitioners and taking cognisance of the offences on January 4, 2019.

"There is a wide difference between a verification and an affidavit. The affidavit is a legally signed and notarized document, whereas, verification is only the statement of the complainant that whatever he has said is true," court said.

An FIR has been filed against noted leader of Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti (MES) Shubham Shelke by the Belagavi police on charges of posting a controversial map of Maharashtra, which included some areas of Karnataka near the border, on a social networking site. The case has been filed by Malamaruti police based on a complaint lodged by Vinayak Bhovi, leader of Kannada Rakshana Vedike

Yatnal's charges should be probed, says DKS

MLA's comment gives Cong another stick to beat BJP with, amidst the PSI scandal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress got lucky, with Vijayapura MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal giving the party another stick to beat the BJP with. KPCC president DK Shivakumar demanded that Yatnal's statement that the "going rate is Rs 2,500 crore for a chief minister and Rs 100 crore for a minister" should be probed and debated at the national level.

Yatnal's comment has left the BJP squirming in embarrassment, coming as it does at a time when his party is trying to play down the PSI recruitment scam and charges of 40 per cent corruption. With elections barely 10 months away, the Bommai government is having to deal with fresh allegations of corruption.

"Yatnal is a former Union minister and sitting MLA. His statement should be taken seriously and investigated," Shivakumar said. "Under the BJP's rule, there are amounts to be paid for recruitment as police sub-inspectors. Professor Ashok Kumar had committed suicide over appointment of Bengaluru University Vice-Chancellor."

On WHO putting India's Covid-19 death toll at 47 lakh, he said the government should give Rs 5 lakh as compensation to the kin of Covid victims. "Many leaders, including Siddaramaiah, had said that 4.5 lakh people had died in Karnataka, but the government insisted that the number was smaller. In my taluk, more than 400 people died but the government claims that only 100 people have died. So far, the government has not given compensation to those who have died of Covid, though former CM Yediyurappa had assured a compensation." "The health minister is hiding the death toll. CM Bommai should immediately provide relief to families of the deceased," he said.

With Modi back, K'taka BJP waits for change

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

WITH Prime Minister Narendra Modi having returned to India after his Europe trip, BJP leaders are eagerly waiting to see the changes the party high command brings in, ahead of the 2023 assembly polls.

"Even the chief minister and senior leaders don't have a clue about leadership change or cabinet reshuffle or expansion. Ultimately, Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah will take the final call," remarked a ministerial aspirant.

Meanwhile, BJP National General Secretary (Organisation) B L Santhosh, who was on a trip to Gujarat, reached New Delhi on Thursday, and is likely to meet PM Modi to brief him about the situation is that state, which is headed for polls in December 2022.

"He may also take up the issue of Karnataka and discuss the Bommai government's effectiveness and party's situation. He had spoken recently about a change in leadership as the BJP's strength, in the context of putting an end to dynasty politics," a source said.

A ministerial aspirant

Which is why former Union minister Basanagouda Patil Yatnal was allowed to speak against dynasty politics, and had stated on Friday that only one member of a family would be given a ticket in the next polls.

Bommai, it seems, is unmindful about talk of a cabinet rejig, and is holding meetings of various departments to ensure his budgetary promises are implemented. There are many options before the BJP high command, including snap polls, cabinet reshuffle, Gujarat model of change in leadership, among other strategies ahead of the 2023 assembly polls. Karnataka is crucial for the party to retain power as the gateway to the South, say political pundits.

Bommai has reportedly spoken to former chief minister S M Krishna about holding a party convention in Mandya, the Vokkaliga bastion in Old Mysuru region, to strengthen the party.

Bommai will be in New Delhi on May 10 to meet ambassadors of various countries to impress upon them that Karnataka is the investment destination, ahead of the Global Investors' Meet to be held in November 2022, according to the CMO. However, it's not confirmed whether he will call on the party high command to discuss the cabinet rejig.

LEADERS SHOULD NOT COMMENT AGAINST PARTY'S INTEREST: EXCISE MINISTER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hassan

BRUSHING aside the statement made by Vijayapura MLA Basanagoud Patil Yatnal that the high command is mulling a change in guard before May 10 in the state, District Minister Gopalaiah said that there is no such proposal made.

Speaking to reporters after inaugurating the power station in Belawadi of Arkalgud taluk, he said that 2023 assembly election will also be held under the leadership of Basavaraj Bommai. The CM's position is comfortable and not shaky, he said. He added that leaders, especially senior politicians, should not air such hasty statements in public in the interest of the party and the leaders respect the decision of the party high command.

He added that Gopalaiah, who is also the Excise Minister, said that Arun Singh, the Karnataka incharge, recently clarified that there will not be a change in leadership in Karnataka. The minister said that a section of opposition leaders allegedly are conspiring against Ashwath Narayan, the Higher Education Minister, over the PSI scam. The state government has taken the issue seriously and has taken stringent action against the guilty in this regard, he added. The district minister said that the government is committed to set up a truck terminal in Hassan and the Revenue Minister will be taking the final decision.

PSI SCAM

STATE TO MOVE HC SEEKING TRIAL BY FAST-TRACK COURT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kalaburagi

HOME Minister Araga Jnanendra on Friday said the government will move the High Court urging it to constitute a fast track court for speedy trial of the case involving PSI-CET scam accused.

He said, "The government wants to take the case to its logical end and punish the accused so that nobody should dare to commit such scams in the future. Speedy justice and punishment will help in checking recurrence of such scams. Keeping this in mind, we will ask the High Court to constitute a fast track court and the government will appoint special prosecutors to argue on behalf of the CID in the court".

He said, "The government has entrusted the probe to the CID which is carrying out the investigation in a fair manner. We have given a free hand to the investigative agency and have directed it to take action against those found guilty, irrespective of their political affiliation or status. Nobody including the chief minister will interfere in the investigation".

A Deputy Superintendent of Police (DySP) rank officer, a police inspector and a few constables are among the arrested in the scam. The CID has already served notices to all the 545 candidates who had written the CET in October.

Re-exam inevitable

Asked about the decision to conduct re-exams, as it amounts to meting out injustice to genuine candidates for no fault of theirs, he said, "if the malpractice was reported from one or two centres, we would have conducted re-exams only in those centres. But the illegality has been reported from many centres and modern devices like Bluetooth were used."

He clarified that only written exam will be conducted again and not the physical test, adding, the re-exams will be conducted only after the completion of the probe.

The home minister criticised the Leader of Opposition in Legislative Assembly Siddaramaiah and KPCC President D K Shivakumar for dragging the name of Higher Education Minsiter Dr C N Ashwath Narayan into the scam. "If they have proof, let them give it to the CID", he said.

Govt will collapse if PSI scam kingpin is exposed: Kumaraswamy

HASSAN: Former chief minister H D Kumaraswamy predicted the fall of the state government once the name of the kingpin of the Police Sub-Inspector scam is out. Speaking to media persons in Channarayapatna, Kumaraswamy asked whether the state government is ready to reveal the name of the kingpin of the scam? "Nobody is ready to disclose the name of the kingpin as they know that the government will fall soon after the name is disclosed," he said. Kumaraswamy said he also has information about the alleged irregularities in selection of assistant professors and the government should come up with the names of miscreants involved in the scam which is said to be bigger than the PSI scam. He said Congress leaders are giving importance to PSI scam and neglecting the assistant professors scam.

Paswan's LJP(R) to fight K'taka Assembly polls

BENGALURU: With less than a year to go for the Assembly elections in Karnataka, more political parties from North India are eyeing to tap the anti-incumbency votes against Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. Following former Union Minister Sharad Pawar of Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) and Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal who had visited the state recently, it is the turn of former Union Minister late Ram Vilas Paswan's Lok Janshakti Party (R). Paswan's son, Chirag Paswan, an actor-turned-politician, here on Friday announced that the LJP will field its candidates in selected seats in the 2023 Assembly polls in Karnataka. "We will not go for an alliance as a decision has been taken in the national executive of the party to strengthen our party. If we go for an alliance, the national parties take the lion's share and look down upon the regional parties," he told reporters.

Cut down usage of plastic in forests, CM directs officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai directed forest officials to prepare an action plan in association with the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) to study the side-effects of plastic on biodiversity in forests, and resolve them. He also directed officials to work towards reduction of plastic usage.

Bommai, who held a review meeting with forest officials, directed them to send the action plan to all district administrations, to be implemented within a time frame. The World Bank has allotted a big amount to reduce plastic usage, and officials should implement this effectively. The campaign to cut down plastic has to be given more publicity, and the public should also be involved in it.

Stressing on sandalwood cultivation, Bommai said misuse of the sandalwood policy in Karnataka should be stopped.

The chief minister said that Rs 5 crore has been allotted for reserved forest under special grants. The government will also take measures to safeguard animals outside forest areas. This apart, Rs 100 crore will be set aside to construct barricades to avoid man-animal conflict. He directed officials to simplify the process of cutting trees on private land, and transporting them. However, he pointed out that the process should not be misused.

Bommai also directed officials to control the timber market at Dandeli, develop Hidkal reservoir, the butterfly park and bird sanctuary at Belagavi.

BJP keen to expand footprint in Old Mysore

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE BJP, which has never won a majority in Karnataka -- it got 108 seats in 2008 and 104 in 2018 -- has understood that one of the reasons it failed to get the magic number of 113 is because Old Mysore is its weakest spot.

The party has realised that it needs support in the Vokkaliga heartland, and is aggressively seeking to expand its footprint here.

Sensing an opportunity in Mandya, where Sumalatha Ambareesh won as independent MP, JDS MLC Appaji Gowda lost his seat, and the KR Pet win, the BJP is feeling encouraged to hold a party convention here. The party is also banking on the eroded vote share of the JDS.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who met one of Old Mysore's tallest leaders, SM Krishna, informed the media about holding a Mandya Samavesha. The BJP has chalked out a number of programmes to wrest the belt from the Congress and JDS, and discussed it with the central leadership too.

"People from all parts of the State are coming to the BJP. Kolar and Mandya are seeing a big influx too. The youth are showing keen interest in joining BJP in South Karnataka. A strong young leadership is set to emerge in Mandya, with a strong wave is in favour of BJP," Bommai said.

On the possibility of ST Jayaram joining the party, he said, "Not only ST Jayaram, we will speak to all those keen to accept the party's ideology and principles."

Over two years ago, BJP State President Nalin Kumar Kateel had told TNIE that the party is working to increase its influence over Old Mysore.

The win of Vokkaliga (Kunchatiga) leader Rajesh Gowda in Sira, Tumakuru, the entry of Vokkaliga leaders Dr K Sudhakar (Chikkaballapur), K Gopalaiah (Mahalakshmi) and ST Somashekar (Dasarahalli) in addition to stalwarts R Ashoka, CT Ravi, Shobha Karandlaje and Sadananda Gowda, will ensure a more ambitious outreach in Old Mysore.

Varthur Prakash, Malur ex-MLA to join BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolar

FORMER minister and two-term independent MLA Varthur R Prakash and former MLA from Malur Kodihalli Manjunath Gowda are all set to join the saffron party in Bengaluru on Saturday. Speaking to The New Indian Express, Kodihalli Manjunath said, "I took the decision to dump JDS and join BJP only after consulting with my supporters and well wishers. A grand programme will be organised in Malur where thousands of my supporters including zilla, taluk and gram panchayat members will join the BJP." Meanwhile, Prakash said he will also join the BJP with Gowda in the presence of party state president Nalin Kumar Kateel, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar, Revenue Minister R Ashoka and District Minister Munirathna. The BJP is likely to get a boost in the region months ahead of the Assembly elections as both the leaders have a good clout in their respective constituencies. It may be recalled that for the last several months, the duo was seen in almost all the functions of District Minister Munirathna.

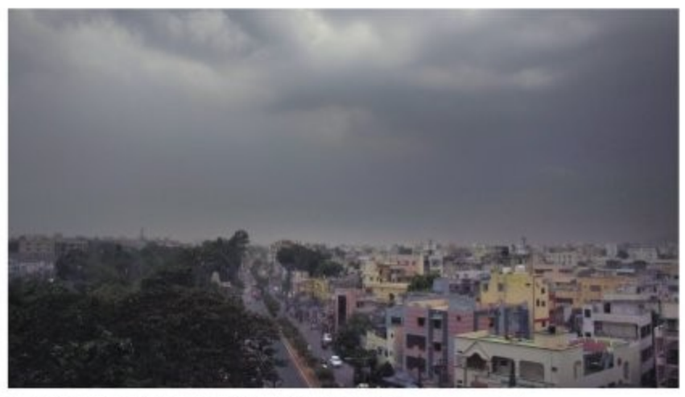
LOW PRESSURE LIKELY TO INTENSIFY INTO CYCLONE

Storm may move towards Bengal, B'desh coasts: CEC Director



An overcast evening sky in Vijayawada on Friday | P RAVINDRA BABU

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bhubaneswar

THE low pressure area formed over South Andaman Sea and adjoining South-East Bay of Bengal on Friday is likely to intensify into a cyclonic storm by Sunday evening.

According to the India Meteorological Department (IMD), the system is expected to move north-westwards, intensify into a depression by Saturday evening and further into a cyclone over East-Central Bay of Bengal in the next 24 hours.

The system is likely to continue to move North-Westwards and reach West-Central and adjoining North-West Bay of Bengal off North Andhra Pradesh-Odisha coasts by Tuesday. "The path of the system can be ascertained after it intensifies into a depression," said Bhubaneswar Meteorological Centre Scientist, Umasankar Das.

Director of the Centre for Environment and Climate (CEC) of SOA University Sarat Sahu said that the tropical storm may change its course on May 10. "The cyclone may change its path to North or North-Eastwards and move along Odisha coast or cross Jagatsinghpur and Kendrapara districts. The storm might move towards West Bengal or Bangladesh coasts," he added.

"The sea surface temperature near the coast is not very warm. Besides, the land is also not warm due to the recent thundershower activity. So, once the system crosses the land, its intensity will reduce," he said.

Weather forecaster Skymet on Friday said that the probability of the storm coming closer to North Andhra Pradesh and South Odisha coasts is growing large and thereafter, the statistical records of climatology leaves bi-fold trajectory for the cyclone. "The first scenario takes the storm for a direct strike over bordering areas of north coastal Andhra Pradesh and south Odisha. An alternate trajectory can make the storm re-curve to run parallel to the coastline of Andhra Pradesh and Odisha and head for West Bengal and Bangladesh," said Skymet. An observation period of about 48 hours to 72 hours is needed to provide a clear prediction, it added.

ISRO aims at maiden Venus expedition

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ T'Puram

CONTINUING with its legacy of successfully launching budget space missions, the Indian Space Research Organisation now aims for its maiden Venus expedition. The Space agency's new Venus mission would cost between ₹500cr-₹1,000 crore, said ISRO chairman S Somanath on Friday.

"The cost will depend on the extend of instrumentation. If you put a lot of payload instruments, the cost will naturally go up," he said.

While international space agencies like NASA spends greatly for space missions, the ISRO opts for budget missions. ISRO's Chandrayan-1 was a budget spaceship built at a cost of only ₹386 crore. The Chandrayaan-2 mission cost ₹603 crore while its launch was made at ₹367 crore.

Speaking to media on the sidelines of a national conference on Aerospace Quality and Reliability on Friday, the ISRO chief said the agency is in the process of approaching the government, seeking approval for the mission. Responding to questions, he also said the schedule for Chandrayan-3 is yet to be fixed.

The ISRO, after its Moon and Mars missions, is now looking at a Venus mission. Even as there are reports that the ISRO has been eyeing a December 2024 window for launching the Venus Mission, Somnath said the schedule hasn't been finalised. It would be announced only after final clearance by the Centre.

The ISRO has been making efforts to ensure that it would be a unique mission. "We have to be careful with expensive missions of this nature. It's not mere fancy for work that we want to do a Venus mission. We do it for the unique identity that this mission will create amongst all the Venus missions that are likely to happen in future. That's the goal," he said. Somnath said the mission would generate a lot of data than can be utilised by scientists.

Though the schedule has not been announced yet, the ISRO is ready with the preparatory stages. "The technology definition, the work package, schedule, procurement - all these are ready," he said. "Venus is a different class of planet. The remote sensing of Venus is much more difficult due to the thick atmosphere and the activity-space," he said.

J&K DELIMITATION AND THE POLITICAL MEANING BEHIND IT

There are the bald facts about the delimitation proposals for Jammu and Kashmir, and then there is the realm of deeper political meaning. One could treat them as objectively separate but, in reality, they are mutually constitutive of each other. The former did not come about in a void, the latter provides the driving impetus for it. As plain uninterpreted fact, what do the proposals seek to do? Expand the Assembly for J&K by giving it seven more seats. Six of those will go to Jammu, one to Kashmir. And rearrange the spatial ambit of the Anantnag Lok Sabha seat by attaching to it Poonch and Rajouri, which are on the other side of the Pir Panjal range and administratively a part of Jammu.

What will be the immediate consequence of these two proposals, if formally fructified, as they are likely to be? The share of Hindu-dominated Jammu in the Assembly, hitherto 37, will go up to 43. The Muslim-dominant Kashmir Valley goes up by just one, to 47. So their gap is reduced, and a greater sense of parity is achieved between the two regions, administratively bound up with each other but politically antagonistic. If a historical wrong was being righted there, a kind of legal redress could have been ascribed to the idea. Delimitation, as a means to account for demographic changes on the ground, is meant to uniformise the value of every vote, to confer on every individual and group an equal weightage proportionate to their numerical strength. Jammu, with 43.8% of the population, at present accounts for 44.5% of the Assembly's strength—proportionate enough. But now that latter figure could go up to 48%, nearly half. Kashmir's share, already punching a tad below its weight at 55.4% seats for a 56% population, will fall to 52%. What it implies in the realm of political meaning needs no further elaboration.

ASIAD POSTPONED, TIME FOR ATHLETES TO REBOOT

After months of speculation, the 2022 Asian Games has been formally postponed. The Games, to be held in Hangzhou in September, was always under threat once China went into a slew of severe lockdowns starting with their commercial capital Shanghai (less than 150km away from Hangzhou) due to the rapid spread of the Omicron variant of Covid. Even Beijing was not spared and as cases rise, the Hangzhou Asian Games Organising Committee, Olympic Council of Asia and China Olympic Committee met and decided to defer the Games indefinitely. After the 2020 Olympics, this is another major Games that had to be delayed due to Covid. Postponing a multi-discipline mega-event, especially so close to the Games, is always complicated. Though not as grand in scale as the Olympics, yet millions of dollars have been spent to get the venues and other logistics ready before time. As for rescheduling, the organisers would want the same window—in September next year—though it would be finalised in a meeting later. That means there would be less than one year to the 2024 Olympics in Paris. Since most Asian Games sporting disciplines carry points for Olympic qualifications, international federations have to reorganise their calendar.

For some of our top athletes though, this could be a boon. In a packed calendar, peaking multiple times in a short span of time is usually considered perilous as the risk of getting injured is high. For example, Tokyo 2020 gold medallist Neeraj Chopra would be competing in World Championships, Commonwealth Games (within a span of 15 days) and later at the Asian Games. For older athletes, however, this may not be good news. Preparation had already begun in most sports while in a few, trials too were conducted. The badminton team was already selected and for those who do not get to figure in the team, it would be a big disappointment.

There is some kind of a consolation for select Indian athletes. The Birmingham Commonwealth Games in July is still on. Though much smaller in scale (there are only select Olympic disciplines in CWG), serious participation would be expected. It needs to be seen if Hockey India, which was planning to send an alternate team, would be dispatching its first team. For National Sports Federations and the Sports Authority of India, everything needs to be readjusted and rebooted. After the Olympics, this time it will not be difficult.

How many more International Monetary Fund programmes will Lanka need to put itself through to reach that manna of economic stabilisation?

IMF AND THE SRI LANKA BAILOUT DRAMA

KANDASWAMI SUBRAMANIAN
Served in the Ministry of Finance, GOI, and retired as Joint Secretary

SOUMYADIP SINHA

This is not the first time that Sri Lanka has come out of a battle with the International Monetary Fund (IMF). It is sufficiently battle-scarred over the years since the sixties. As one study in Financial Times reported, "…. Since 1965 Sri Lanka has been a 'repetitive client' of the IMF. The country has entered into 16 economic stabilisation programmes during 1965–2000. Macroeconomic management of the country has been under IMF programmes for approximately 33 of the 55 years." It may raise a valid question: How many more programmes will Sri Lanka need to put itself through to reach that manna of economic stabilisation?

Over the years of Sri Lanka's tango with the IMF, we observe the same elements: drama, tension, reluctance to approach the IMF for succour and, lo and behold, failure to comply with the IMF conditions or conditionalities and, at times, the cancellation of the programme due to political upheavals. We may observe the same pattern whether it is Argentina, Brazil, Pakistan, Greece, Spain or Sri Lanka. The scenario is familiar. For some months when the crisis looms in the horizon, countries are reluctant to seek redress from the IMF as they are apprehensive about the hardships that flow from its austerity prescriptions. Once the crisis deepens and foreign lenders seek their pound of flesh, it becomes unavoidable to knock on the doors of IMF. The ratings agencies foretell the doom. There is also an advice that the pundits offer: "The earlier you reach the IMF, the better the terms will be. Be aware."

For Sri Lanka, what was negotiated last week was the 17th programme. By early 2020, it was evident that the country was on the brink of economic bankruptcy and turmoil. Reputed economists and bankers began to warn about the forthcoming crisis. For instance, Dr W A Wijewardhana, a former Deputy Governor of the Central Bank of Sri Lanka, wrote that the country was sitting on a volcano that could erupt at any time. According to his estimate, Lanka's total foreign debt was a staggering $56 billion, which was 66% of the country's GDP. The reserves were too low to take on the servicing burden. Rather, Lanka had to borrow to pay off the older debt. The Covid-19 pandemic too played a role in devastating the economy.

Though Lanka is classified as a "middle income" country, it is not rich, diversified or resilient to manage a crisis. The tsunami took its toll and now it is the turn of the pandemic. Civil conflicts with the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) had sapped the human and financial resources. Lanka's foreign exchange earnings are from tourism, tea and a few agricultural products. According to estimates, tourism earned 10% of GDP and the earning reported was around $455 million a month in the earlier years. It shrank to $3 million in July 2021. Tea and agricultural exports shrank precipitously. The foreign exchange reserves were declining fast and Lanka's ability to service the foreign debt came into question. The grim situation faced by the people of Lanka was described by the press and media. Long queues were seen around shops for rice, fuel and essentials. Lanka had to import many of the items and pay in dollars even as the foreign exchange reserves were dwindling and getting inadequate to foot the recurring payments. In October 2021, Jeevathan Selvachandran of The Asia & Pacific Policy Society wrote that "the economic crisis is endangering Sri Lanka's future".

> Over the years of Lanka's tango with the IMF, we observe the same elements: drama, reluctance to approach the IMF for succour ... The IMF seems to be too eager to ensure repayment of debt. Many development economists have drawn attention to its preoccupation with short-term stabilisation and its failure to safeguard the welfare of the people

What was the government's response? By January 2022, there were reports that Lanka was unlikely to seek IMF bailout and the Cabinet had failed to reach a consensus. Heroic statements were made by Finance Minister Basil Rajapaksa that Lanka would not default on debt and offered relief packages valued at one billion dollars. These could not stem the tide as the situation was getting out of control. In fact, the government had to stop all repayment of debt for the first time in its history. Bread riots erupted in major cities and in protest meetings, people demanded the resignation of the government. Driven to the wall, some members still hoped that China would come to their rescue with a sizeable relief package. The government's ploy of pitting China against India didn't seem to work. Perhaps, China's own financial problems caused by the meltdown in the housing sector could have caused a setback. Moreover, the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) itself was under review. China's hesitation at a crucial juncture was intriguing. In a belated announcement on Monday, the Chinese Ambassador to Lanka said that Beijing was unhappy that Colombo had approached the IMF when the former was negotiating for a loan-cum-grant of $2.5 billion.

India played its limited role by extending lines of credit. These will facilitate purchase of essential supplies, fuel, medicine, etc. These are temporary sops that offer breathing space and do not promote growth. More like giving a lifeboat to save the country from sinking. Indian FM Nirmala Seetharaman claimed to offer full support to Lanka. One statement she made was that Lanka would need to be treated as a "low income" country and allowed longer horizon for financial stabilisation.

Is there a lesson from all these negotiations and parleys? Yes, the fault is in the IMF's notion of stabilisation. This is an old debate and has been well settled. Unfortunately, while the need for change in the mindset is accepted, the message has not been driven home. The IMF seems to be too eager to ensure repayment of debt. Many development economists have drawn attention to its preoccupation with short-term stabilisation and its failure to safeguard the welfare of the people. No wonder that they abhor IMF programmes. Equally, programmes get repeated.

GIVING CHENNAI'S ERIS A NEW LEASE OF LIFE

T M MUKUNDAN
Founding trustee of Centre for Policy Studies. Also an Yoga instructor & Ayurveda scholar

In a previous article Importance of maintaining surface water bodies (April 2), the role of traditional surface waterbodies, known as eris, in areas of low rainfall was noted. The importance of eris as appropriate irrigation devices for the cultivation of paddy, as flood-control devices, as backup in periods of low rainfall and as crucial to the overall ecosystem was also pointed out.

The eri system is an invaluable treasure that we have inherited from our ancestors. However, in the last couple of centuries, they have been in a state of neglect. In the recent past, eris have been not only neglected but also abused. They are very good rainwater harvesting (RWH) systems created primarily for agricultural purposes and hence very relevant in rural areas.

Neglect of eris in the rural areas has led to the overexploitation of groundwater both through open wells and deep borewells. The open wells, which are sustained through seepage from the eris, have gone dry because of the neglect. Deep borewells tap the deep layer of the aquifer found within rocky strata. This is not easily sustainable by all the recharge activities carried out as part of rainwater harvesting. This has led to borewells going deeper and deeper and has been partly responsible for farmers' suicides. Rural Tamil Nadu has become water-stressed only because of this. This cannot be reversed unless the eris are given a new lease of life.

An important aspect of the eris is that they should be maintained properly and periodically for them to play a useful role. Maintaining these waterbodies is as important as creating them. This involves desilting of the eris, the inlet and outlet channels, strengthening the bunds, repairing the sluices and the overflow structures. During British rule, the resources of the village communities were taken away and the task of maintaining eris was given to a government department. This led to the inefficient functioning of the eris and ultimately to their decay. Failure to desilt them periodically will result in the reduction of the effective volume of the waterbody, giving an impression that they are full even after a small shower. Once this happens, eris may not be able to supply water even for a single crop when traditionally they would have supplied water for two crops and in some cases even three.

Due to urbanisation, some of these eris located in urban and peri-urban areas may have lost their relevance in agriculture. Still they can continue to play a useful role as reservoirs supplying fresh water to the surrounding areas.

This is evident from the fact that four such eris—Puzhal (Red Hills), Sholavaram, Chembarambakkam and Veeranam—have been important water sources for Chennai. Several others in the CMA (Chennai Metropolitan Area) and the extended area of the city are not freshwater sources as of now but can become supplementary decentralised sources in future. In addition, there are a number of such eris in the neighbouring districts of Chengalpattu, Kanchipuram and Thiruvallur. There should be an effort to pick out those that have lost their agricultural relevance, in order to repair, rejuvenate and use them either as freshwater sources for the immediate use of the neighbourhood and/or as recharge ponds to build up the aquifer.

> Maintaining these waterbodies is as important as creating them. This involves desilting, strengthening the bunds and repairing the sluices. During British rule, the resources of village communities were taken away and the task of maintaining eris was given to a government department. This led to their inefficient functioning and ultimately to their decay

There should also be an effort to immediately revive the eris that still exist in Chennai. These can be potential sources of fresh water if large quantities of rainwater are made to collect in them. If this is done, they can act not only as freshwater sources and help recharge groundwater but also mitigate floods. And Chennai can become self-sufficient in water.

Many old eris are gradually dying and disappearing into urban extensions and building sites. Such blind and unplanned expansion of urban areas needs to be halted. The city of Chennai is an example of such expansion. What was once a landscape full of eris has been converted into a city and its suburbs, by filling in all the old ones. The result is that there is no way of holding rainwater and recharging groundwater. Instead, during periods of heavy rainfall, entire residential areas become water-logged since they are "low-lying".

In the extended area of Chennai as well as in the CMA, there are several eris, which having lost their agricultural relevance, are being considered as useless. It is very difficult to even imagine how the eris, which are such magnificent RWH systems, could be ignored, neglected and abused by way of encroachment, and dumping of solid and liquid waste into them. Dumping wastes makes it difficult to revive and rejuvenate them. In several cases, state government offices have come up in eris and the state housing board even promoted a housing scheme in one and gave it the name of the eri!

It must be still possible to harness the run-off waters from a large portion of the semi-arid tracts of India by a proper extension of the indigenous eri technology. Without a proper study and understanding of the eri technology, modern civil engineers will not be able to play any innovative role in providing water to regions in India, which have become perennially "drought-prone".

Based on models

The WHO has reported that there were about 4.7 million more deaths due to the pandemic in India as against the official figures. The government has naturally disputed the figures trotted out by the WHO. The numbers mentioned by the world health body are based on certain assumptions and hence one cannot be sure about the actual figures. It is, however, a fact that the second wave of the pandemic went beyond the contemplation of the government and many died due to lack of infrastructure and shortage of oxygen, which had not been anticipated. Even assuming that the figures of the WHO are not far from reality, we have to take into consideration the large population of the country; larger the population of a nation, more will be the number of deaths.

Real's fighting spirit

Football fans across the globe rejoiced at the stunning manner in which Real Madrid reached the UEFA Champions League final. Manchester City held a lead from the first leg and seemed to have put the match to bed with Riyad Mahrez's strike in the 73rd minute. Considering the depth of City's defence and their famed coach Pep Guardiola's tactics, it seemed it was all over for the Spanish team. With just a minute left for the match to end, substitute Rodrygo scored two goals in succession. Talismanic striker Karim Benzema then sealed the historic comeback. Real Madrid's fighting spirit till the very end paid off.

Last-minute magic

It was last-minute magic from Real Madrid that saw them beat the favourites Manchester City. Manager Carlo Ancelotti's substitution decision helped. We will now witness a mouthwatering clash in the finals between Real Madrid and Liverpool, who look unstoppable at present.

Not acceptable

This is with reference to Tour of duty not good for Army (May 6). The induction of youth for just three years in the Indian Army is not acceptable. How would they serve effectively and on par with other soldiers and officers? By the time they learn the ropes, the youth will already be on their way out and so it cannot be expected that they will serve the country as well.

The Earth on high flame: NASA data shows record heating

Excess energy -- way more than 1 million Hiroshimas a day -- sizzling around the planet; fossil fuels main culprit

Heat going above desired level

NASA data shows Earth is heating at unprecedented speed: 1.64 W/m². That's a lot of additional energy to heat oceans, land and atmosphere, melt ice and increase sea levels.

Fossil fuels doing no good to Earth

Particles from the burning of fossil fuels, especially coal and heavy fuel oil by ships, reflect light and increase cloud cover and reflectivity, says a top scientist.

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

INDIA needs no weatherman to know that the earth is heating up. With a March that came as a burnt spring, and the hottest April in a century and a quarter bringing a national power crisis, the average Indian can feel it on the skin. But official confirmation comes from US space agency NASA: its annual satellite data shows the earth is heating up at an unprecedented rate.

The rate of global warming has tripled in the past 20 years, and the year just gone by was particularly bad.

A record of sorts was reached between March 2021 and Feb 2022, when NASA quantified that a lot of additional energy was sizzling around in the earth's system — heating oceans, the land, the atmosphere, melting ice and getting the sea levels to swell.

According to scientists, the data shows that the earth is heating up at an unprecedented speed of 1.64 Watt per square meter (W/m²).

That's a good-sized jump from last year, when it was already equivalent to the heat generated by a million Hiroshima-sized atomic bombs every day.

The key variable on which this can be read is the Earth's Energy Imbalance, the rate at which the world heats up. The Earth's Energy Imbalance (EEI) record from Mar 21-Feb 22 clearly shows the additional energy in the Earth's system.

Leon Simons, a climate researcher, says NASA's CERES radiative flux data for 2021 had the annual EEI at 1.52 W/m² — or 1 million Hiroshimas. This year it stood at 1.64 W/m². To stabilize the climate, the EEI should fluctuate around 0 W/m² and to cool it needs to be negative on average.

The climate researcher says NASA's CERES team had actually expected the rate of heat uptake to decrease, in a cyclical waning. But things went in another direction. Absorbed Solar Radiation (ASR) increased faster than Outgoing Longwave Radiation.

"Higher greenhouse gas concentrations "limit the amount of heat that radiates to space," Simons tweeted.

Culprits? The usual suspects: burning of fossil fuels.

India snubs Dutch envoy for remark on Ukraine war

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

THE Dutch ambassador to the UK had a taste of India's growing self-assertiveness over the Ukraine war that has unleashed several United Nations General Assembly debates culminating in near-isolation of Russia for the invasion.

"Kindly don't patronize us... New Delhi knows what to do," riposted India's permanent representative to the UN, TS Tirumurti. He responded to a remark by Dutch ambassador to the UK, Karel van Oossterom, who said India should not have abstained in the General Assembly and that New Delhi should respect the UN Charter.

Ever since the commencement of the conflict in Ukraine, India has been consistently calling for complete cessation of hostilities and for pursuing the path of dialogue and diplomacy as the only way out

TS Tirumurti, Indian envoy to India

During a UN Security Council special briefing on Ukraine, Tirumurti made a statement asking for cessation of war in Ukraine. "Ever since the commencement of the conflict in Ukraine, India has been consistently calling for complete cessation of hostilities and for pursuing the path of dialogue and diplomacy as the only way out," said Tirumurti. "The conflict has resulted in loss of lives and countless miseries for people, particularly women, children and the elderly, with thousands becoming homeless and seeking shelter in neighbouring countries," he said.

India has strongly condemned the killing of civilians in Ukraine's Bucha town and supported the call for an independent investigation.

"We support all efforts to alleviate the suffering of the people of Ukraine. India remains on the side of peace and therefore believes that there will be no winning side in this conflict. While those impacted by this conflict will continue to suffer, diplomacy will be a lasting casualty," Ambassador Tirumurti said.

India has hailed the visit of the UN Secretary General to Moscow and Kyiv and his engagement with the leadership of Russia and Ukraine. "We agree that the immediate priority is the evacuation of innocent civilians from areas witnessing intense fighting," it said.

Oil prices are skyrocketing and there is a shortage of food grains due to the war in Ukraine.

NO MORE 'BODY PUSHES' BETWEEN INDIAN & CHINESE TROOPS IN LADAKH

MAYANK SINGH @Udhampur (J&K)

TWO years after the Galwan clash, the situation along the Line of Actual Control in eastern Ladakh is stable and India is negotiating from a position of strength, said Lieutenant General Upendra Dwivedi who heads the Northern Army Command. "We will ensure that 2020 does not recur."

Indian and Chinese troops had a bloody clash in May 2020 that resulted in the death of 20 Indian soldiers. An unspecified number of Chinese troops – more than 40 as per various accounts –also died in the violent skirmish.

"The force as well as equipment deployment is calibrated in nature and we will make sure that any kind of misadventure by the adversary does not take place again," said Lt Gen Dwivedi.

"Things have changed... we also have the strategic patience and we are also ready to wait out," said Lt Gen Dwivedi.

To sort out the "perceptional difference," trust has to be built which the Chinese broke in 2020, he pointed out. "The situation as of today is stable but we are in a state of heightened alert," he said.

The two sides have stepped up communication between lower-level troops to ensure "there is no irritant that could escalate to a violent situation," said the top Indian Army officer.

"We have regular hotline exchanges and have stopped 'body push.' No physical contact is being ensured. In case of an irritant, we immediately call for talks and at the battalion and brigade levels. We sit together and come to an amicable solution," Lieutenant General Dwivedi said on the sidelines of the North Tech Symposium being organized after a gap of two years.

The Indian Army's Northern Command is the most operationally active command handling both Line of Control with Pakistan and LAC with China. It is also involved in the counter insurgency and counter terrorism operations.

About the LoC with Pakistan, the Commander said that the drone is a great technology, but Pakistan was using it for the wrong purpose. "Weapons have been dropped along the LoC and international border. Our effort is to keep up surveillance and capture or shoot down any drone within Indian territory.

The Army Commander also affirmed American weapons reaching Kashmir.

Delhi-Centre service row to be decided: SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday referred to a five-judge Constitution Bench the issue pertaining to the legal dispute between Delhi and Central governments regarding the control over administrative services in the national capital.

The case would be adjudicated on the limited aspect of "services" as the top court said that all other issues were dealt earlier by the constitutional bench and that it does not want to revisit the issues settled by the five-judge bench.

"The limited issue that has been referred to this bench relates to the scope of legislative and executive powers of the Centre and NCT Delhi with respect to the term 'services'. The Constitution Bench, while interpreting Article 239AA(3)(a) of the Constitution, did not find any occasion to specifically interpret the impact of the wordings of the same with respect to Entry 41 in the State List," reads the order.

"We, therefore, deem it appropriate to refer the above limited question, for an authoritative pronouncement by a Constitution Bench in terms of Article 145(3)," it said, adding that the matter would be heard on May 1.1

The bench had reserved its order on April 28 on the Centre's request that the matter be sent to a Constitution Bench for a holistic interpretation of Article 239AA.

COVID FIGHT-OFF

WHO report wrong on four counts: BJP

RAJESH THAKUR @New Delhi

THE BJP came out strongly against the WHO data on India's official Covid toll, alleging that the global agency prepared its report from unverified sources instead of taking help from the country's robust registration system.

"WHO's methodology to estimate deaths in India is flawed and inaccurate. India has strongly objected to the WHO over such report which seems to be based on assumption and obtained from unverified sources," BJP national spokesperson Sambit Patra said, adding that the figures do not look statistically sound and scientifically acceptable. "There are four important steps on the basis of which we believe the WHO data is wrong. The first is the method used by the WHO is wrong. Sources of data are unverified. The third (objection) is criteria through which the WHO has placed India in Tier-2 country and the fourth is the use of assumption for imaginary analysis of data."

The World Health Organisation has put the number of Covid deaths in India at around 4.7 million, which is 10-times the official count.

The mathematical model, which was used by the WHO to prepare report on Covid deaths, has always been questioned by India, Patra said.

"A robust system is in place as far as registration of birth and death is concerned through the Civil Registration System under the Registrar General of India. This system is in practice since 1969. It is not proper to make calculation of deaths through other model despite the presence of a robust system in India," the BJP spokesperson said.

Congress seeks all-party panel, ₹4 lakh ex gratia

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

A day after the WHO's damning pandemic report, the Congress on Friday sought an all-party Covid commission to ascertain the number of fatalities and demanded ₹4 lakh compensation be paid to families of all the victims.

Former Congress president Rahul Gandhi accused the government of under-reporting Covid deaths and asked if it was a way to escape from paying compensation to the families of the deceased. "47 lakh Indians died due to the Covid pandemic. Not 4.8 lakh as claimed by the Govt. Science doesn't lie. Modi does. Respect families who've lost loved ones. Support them with the mandate? 4 lakh compensation (sic)," he tweeted.

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra said when crores of people were pleading for oxygen, medicines, and hospital beds for their families, the government was focusing on juggling figures. "The people of the country should know what the truth is," she said.

The opposition party reiterated its demand that a Covid commission be formed immediately with members from all parties to analyse the deaths that happened due to unavailability of oxygen, broken supply chain in case of vaccines and medicines. "The mismanagement of the Covid pandemic by the BJP government is not hidden from anyone. The apathetic attitude has been evident all along. The nation saw people gasping for oxygen during the second wave. The world saw the Modi management style when thousands of bodies were floating in the Ganga," Congress spokesperson Gaurav Vallabh said.

These sobering data not only point to the impact of the pandemic but also to the need for all countries to invest in more resilient health systems that can sustain essential health services

WHO statement

Difference in models

The India's Covid-19 data is based on number of deaths registered by Civil Registration System (CRS) but it doesn't categorise deaths by causes. The CRS data said that 81.16 lakh deaths were rgistered in India in 2020, with an increase of about 4.75 lakh compared to 2019. This will include deaths by Covid but we dont know how many by Covid. In contrast, WHO data used a mathematical modelling system. India was put in Tier 2 countries that don't have complete data and required use of alternate data sources.

Guj's Muslim fishermen seek mass euthanasia

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

IT has sustained life for millennia, but now seeks death. Poignantly, the news comes from Mahatma Gandhi's hometown, Porbandar. A leader from the local Muslim fishing community has approached the Gujarat High Court seeking permission to undergo euthanasia for himself and 600 members of his people.

Allarakha Ismailbhai Thimmar from the Gosabara wetlands in Porbandar filed the petition on Thursday, lamenting the fishing community's deteriorating economic situation. The application, filed on behalf of the Gosabara Muslim Fishermen's Society, alleged "the government does not provide facilities to people belonging to a particular community."

Faced with "political persecution," the petitioners are seeking to end their life, pending several submissions from the local level to the Governor.

The petitioner's counsel, Dharmesh Gurjar, says the mooring of boats has been banned at Gosabara port since 2016. "Thimmar and his community are being denied their rights despite having licences."

Thimmar alleges that authorities have been "harassing" their families on the basis of religion and claims all facilities are regularly given to Hindu fishermen.

The petition said the community has always been "loyal to the nation" and never engaged in "anti-national activities" like smuggling. Instead, they have often "given information to security agencies" on such activities "sponsored by Pakistan and others."

No President's Rule in Bengal, fight TMC politically: Shah tells workers

Bengal functionaries allege 'atrocities' by TMC; Shah cites huge mandate of Trinamool

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

REJECTING the demand of a section of BJP workers in Bengal to impose President's Rule in the state, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Friday told them that the Trinamool Congress came to power with a huge mandate and that the BJP would have to fight the party politically.

On the last day of his two-day visit to the eastern state, Shah was interacting with party functionaries in Kolkata.

During the event, a section of party functionaries raised the "atrocities" committed by the TMC against the saffron party. They alleged the police was acting at the behest of the ruling party and demanded imposition of President's Rule.

Shah, however, ruled out the possibility of imposing Article 356 in the state. 'The Trinamool Congress came back to power for the third straight term with a huge mandate. An elected government can't be overthrown by imposing Article 356. We will have to fight against the Bengal's ruling party politically,'" Shah reportedly said in the meeting.

A senior BJP leader said Shah told them to strengthen the party from grassroots level. "The second-in-command in the Central government rubbished the demand of our party leaders. He said the BJP workers would have to continue fight against TMC's atrocities. He also cited how he was attacked and framed in false cases when the BJP was in the opposition in Gujarat. He reminded us that the party workers in grassroots level will have to fight hard and strengthen the party's position in the state," he said.

Shah reportedly reminded his party workers about the political violence faced by rival Mamata during the erstwhile CPM rule. "Bengal CM also faced attacks by the then ruling CPM but she continued her movement and achieved her goal. But the TMC is following the footprint of the CPM and unleashing attack on our party workers. It is because the TMC no longer believes in democracy. We believe in democracy, so we will have to fight it politically,'" he said.

Shah on Friday evening visited BCCI president Saurav Ganguly's house to have dinner with the former skipper of Indian cricket team. Ganguly dismissed any political angle to Shah's visit.

SHAH SEEKS CBI PROBE INTO 'POLITICAL MURDER'

Meeting the family members of a BJP's youth wing leader who was found dead in an abandoned room in Kolkata, Shah said the Union Home Ministry has taken the incident "seriously" and sought a report from the state government. He said the probe into the "political murder" should be handed over to the CBI. Shah alleged that death of Arjun Chowrasia (27) was the fall out of political rivalry. "Yesterday, the Trinamool Congress-led government completed its first year of storming back to power for third straight term in Bengal, and on the next day, the murder of our karyakarta took place."

PLEA IN UP

HC SAYS LOUDSPEAKER AT MOSQUE NOT A FUNDAMENTAL RIGHT

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

AMID the ongoing controversy over the use of loudspeakers and sound amplifiers at places of worship across the country, the Allahabad High Court has dismissed a petition seeking permission for using loudspeakers from the premises of a mosque to play Azaan (Islamic call for prayer), observing that use of loudspeakers in mosques for Azaan was not a fundamental right.

The Allahabad High Court rejected the petition filed by one Irfan on May 4. He was represented in the court by advocate Sachin Kumar Sharma. The petitioner, a resident of Baduan district, had filed an application on August 20 last year seeking permission to play Azaan on loudspeaker from Noori Masjid. The said mosque is located in Dhoranpur village in Bisauli tehsil of Budaun district.

After his petition was rejected by the district court of Badaun on December 3, 2021, Irfan had moved the Allahabad High Court. The matter came up for hearing before a division bench comprising Justices Vivek Kumar Birla and Vikas Bhudhwar.

During the hearing, the plaintiff termed the rejection of plea seeking permission to play Azaan on the loudspeaker as 'illegal' and "violative" of his fundamental rights.

After hearing the arguments, the high court bench observed: "The law has now been settled that use of loudspeaker from the mosque is not a fundamental right. Accordingly, we find that the present petition is patently misconceived, hence the same is dismissed."

In May 2020 the Allahabad High Court had held that while reciting Azaan by a Muezzin from a Masjid was integral to Islam, the use of sound amplifiers, such as loudspeakers, did not constitute essential practice.

Intensified drive by Yogi govt

In compliance of an earlier order of the HC, the UP government has got 67,128 loudspeakers removed from places of worship and volume of 57,352 amplifiers lowered across the state as on Friday

Clash claims youth's life in Gujarat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

GUJARAT has reported two incidents of violence involving the use of high-decibel loudhailers in temples within a week in which one person lost his life.

In the first case, a group armed with swords, iron rods and machetes attacked a 30-year-old man and his nine-member family from Mithapur village in Bavla taluka of Ahmedabad over a dispute over loudspeakers at a temple on May 2. Two women in the family also suffered severe injuries in the attack.

In the second case, on May 4, 42-year-old Jaswant Thakor from a village in Mehsana was beaten to death by members of his community for playing loudspeaker at a temple. Jaswant's elder brother Ajit also suffered injuries in the assault. He has filed a murder case against six people. The police on Thursday arrested five people in the case.

'Person once declared Indian, can't be tried again as a foreigner'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

CITING the principle of "res judicata", the Gauhati High Court has ruled that a person declared an Indian by a competent authority cannot be tried again on the same matter.

Res judicata means that a matter adjudicated by a competent court may not be pursued further by the same parties.

The court's order assumes significance as there have been several instances in Assam where persons declared Indian were sent notices again by the Foreigners' Tribunals after suspecting their nationality.

After hearing a batch of petitions involving nationality, a bench of Justices N Kotiswar Singh and Justice Nani Tagia said the common theme that ran through the writ petitions was the applicability of the principle of res judicata.

The petitioners contended based on the decision in the Abdul Kuddus vs Union of India, (2019) case that the subsequent proceedings before the Foreigners Tribunals, challenged in these petitions, are barred by res judicata.

"...The Special Counsel for the Foreigners Tribunal submits that the law laid down by this court in Amina Khatoon vs Union of India (2018), in which it was held that res judicata is not applicable in the proceeding before the Foreigners Tribunal will continue to hold the field, as the said decision has not yet been overruled by the Supreme Court till date, neither has it been challenged before the Supreme Court so far," the bench said.

The counsel for the petitioners argued that principle of res judicata is applicable relying on a number of decisions. It was submitted that the decision in the Amina Khatoon case was plainly contrary to several decisions of the Supreme Court.

The court said it was held in the Amina Khatoon case that though the principle of res judicata is based on public policy, the same will stand subsumed under the public policy governing a sovereign nation while dealing with foreigners.

The court said: "...if it is found that the petitioner is the same person who was proceeded by the Foreigners Tribunal, the present proceeding shall immediately be concluded in favour of the petitioner on the basis of the earlier order."

Rana couple's remarks don't attract sedition law, says court

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

ON the lines of rejection of several sedition cases across the country, a special court in Mumbai on Wednesday granted conditional bail to the Rana couple in the Hanuman Chalisa row, saying their statements though "extremely objectionable" did not cover enough ground to invoke provisions of the sedition law.

The Mumbai police arrested Rana couple — independent MLA Ravi Rana and his spouse Lok Sabha MP Navneet Rana — on April 23 when they chanted Hanuman Chalisa outside Matoshree, Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray's private residence, despite police objection.

In the detailed copy of the bail order, which was uploaded on Friday, judge RN Rokade said: "Undoubtedly, the applicants have crossed the line of freedom of speech and expression guaranteed under the Constitution. However, a mere expression of derogatory or objectionable words may not be the sufficient ground for invoking the provisions contained in Section 124A of IPC."

The court said that though the couple's statements were "blameworthy," they could not be stretched enough to be brought under the ambit of the sedition law.

The court held that prima facie at this stage, the charge under the Indian Penal Code section 124A (sedition) was not made out against the couple.

"The 124A (sedition) provisions would apply only when the written and spoken words tend to create disorder or disturbance by way of violence," the court said.

Referring to Section 124A, the court said a plain reading of the section would show that its application would lie in case an accused brings or attempts to bring into hatred or attempts to excite disaffection towards the government established by law in India, by words either written or spoken or visible science or representations.

Azam Khan's bail delay: Supreme Court terms it 'travesty of justice'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

TERMING it a "travesty of justice", the Supreme Court on Friday expressed displeasure over the delay in the hearing of a bail petition moved by Samajwadi Party leader and Rampur MLA Azam Khan.

The apex court said it will hear Khan's plea seeking interim bail next Wednesday after being informed that the Allahabad High Court had reserved its order on the bail application of Khan in the case on Thursday.

The apex court orally remarked that more than 130 days have passed but no order has passed till date on his bail plea. "...No order has been passed. He was released on bail in 86 cases. This is one case. This is a travesty of justice. We can only say this much now... Let this come on Wednesday..." the top court said.

There are multiple cases against Khan, who is a founding member of the Samajwadi Party. He has secured bail in most of these cases. He has been lodged in Sitapur jail since February 2020. Khan had contested the recently concluded UP Assembly polls from jail and won the Rampur seat with a thumbing majority.

Khan, in his plea, sought from the top court interim bail in the FIR registered at Azeem Nagar Police Station of Rampur. The charges include cheating, conspiracy, forgery and defamation under various sections of the Indian Penal Code, and Section 3 of the Prevention of Damage to the Public Property Act, 1984.

Khan had earlier informed the apex court that the order has been reserved for his bail by the high court in December 2021. Later, when the state government submitted a fresh application to present some new facts, his bail plea was heard again and the order reserved.

Dog bite cases on the rise in Kashmir Valley

Stray dogs have become a menace in Srinagar and other parts of the Valley. There have been at least 5,629 dog bite cases in Kashmir in the last one year. On April 30, 41 persons, including nine tourists, were bitten by stray dogs on the Boulevard Road on the banks of Dal Lake in Srinagar. The canine population in the Valley is increasing as there has been no serious attempt to curb the dog menace and ensure safety of the people. Of the 5,629 bite cases, 4,264 cases were from Srinagar. Elderly people and children are told to be cautious while venturing out. Doctors Association Kashmir says sterilisation and anti-rabies vaccination hold the key to curb the stray menace.

Traders blame Assam for Meghalaya meat shortage

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

MEGHALAYA is facing an acute shortage of beef allegedly owing to the restrictions imposed by neighbouring Assam on the transport of cattle to the state.

The Khasi Jaintia Butchers' Association in Meghalaya has blamed the Assam government of not allowing the entry of cattle into the state.

The Northeast has a large population of beef-eaters. Cows are purchased outside the region and transported to the states through Assam. However, Assam's BJP-led coalition government had put in place various restrictions with the enforcement of the Assam Cattle Preservation (Amendment) Act, 2021.

The butchers' body in Meghalaya slammed the Conrad Sangma government for "doing nothing" to facilitate the transport of cattle. It asked the government to take up matter in right earnest with the Assam government. The state government claims it is issuing challans for the transport of cattle but the traders said they received none. "We will ask the government to stop issuing the challans. What's the use of issuing the challans when we are not receiving these?" Generous Warlarpih, general secretary of the association, said.

According to the association, cattle are now available only in the black market but at double the actual price. It warned that the situation might compel the traders to leave this business.

UN races to rescue civilians from besieged Mariupol plant

Ukraine forces say Russian troops fired at an evacuation vehicle moving in the steel plant's compound; one soldier killed, six others wounded in attack

ZAPORIZHZHIA

THE United Nations (UN) raced on Friday to rescue more civilians from the tunnels under a besieged steel plant in Mariupol and the city at large, even as fighters holed up at the sprawling complex made their last stand to prevent Moscow's complete takeover of the strategic port.

The fight for the last Ukrainian stronghold in a city reduced to ruins by the Russian onslaught appeared increasingly desperate amid growing speculation that President Vladimir Putin wants to finish the battle for Mariupol so he can present a triumph to the Russian people in time for Monday's Victory Day, the biggest patriotic holiday on the Russian calendar.

Some 2,000 Ukrainian fighters, by Russia's most recent estimate, are holed up in the vast maze of tunnels and bunkers beneath the Azovstal steelworks, and they have repeatedly refused to surrender. Ukraine has said a few hundred civilians were also trapped there, and fears for their safety has grown as the battle has grown fiercer in recent days.

Officials said on Thursday that the UN was launching a third effort to evacuate citizens from the plant and the city. But on Friday, the organisation did not divulge any new details of the operation — it has been similarly quiet about previous ones while they were ongoing.

It could takes days to know whether the latest UN effort succeeded, since people escaping Mariupol typically have to pass through contested areas and many checkpoints before reaching relative safety in the Ukrainian-controlled city of Zaporizhzhia, about 230 km to the northwest, where many have gathered.

Andriy Yermak, head of Ukraine's presidential office, said on Friday on the Telegram messaging app that another "complex operation to evacuate people from Mariupol and Azovstal" was conducted and that nearly 500 civilians were rescued.

Two previous evacuations negotiated by the UN and the Red Cross brought roughly 500 people from the steel plant and elsewhere in Mariupol. It was not clear if Yermak was saying more people had since been rescued.

Fighters defending the plant said on Friday on Telegram that Russian troops fired on an evacuation vehicle on the plant's grounds.

They said the car was moving toward civilians when it was hit by shelling, and that one soldier was killed and six were wounded.

Moscow didn't immediately acknowledge renewed fighting there on Friday.

While they pounded away at the plant, Russian forces struggled to make significant gains elsewhere, 10 weeks into a devastating war that has killed thousands of people, forced millions to flee the country and flattened large swaths of cities.

The Ukrainian military's general staff said on Friday that its forces repelled 11 attacks in the Donbas and destroyed tanks and armoured vehicles, further frustrating Putin's ambitions after his abortive attempt to seize Kyiv. Russia gave no immediate acknowledgement of those losses. AP

Emergency declared in Lanka again as protests intensify

COLOMBO

SRI LANKA President Gotabaya Rajapaksa on Friday declared a state of emergency giving security forces sweeping powers for the second time in five weeks to deal with escalating anti-government protests.

A spokesman for the president said he invoked the tough laws to "ensure public order" after trade unions staged a nationwide strike on Friday demanding his resignation over a worsening economic crisis.

Earlier in the day, police used tear gas and a water cannons to disperse student protesters who were camped outside Parliament criticising lawmakers for not ousting President Gotabaya and his government over the country's worst economic crisis in decades.

The student-led protest began on Thursday after a government-backed deputy speaker was elected in Parliament by a comfortable margin in what was seen a key victory for the governing coalition. Separately, protesters have been occupying the entrance to the president's office in the capital, Colombo, for 28 days demanding Rajapaksa and his powerful ruling family quit.

Shops, offices and schools were closed across the country on Friday and transport came to a near standstill amid widespread demonstrations against the government.

Opposition lawmakers raised objections in Parliament over the use of tear gas against the students, after which the speaker adjourned the session until May 17.

Students withdrew from the protest site, warning that they will return when Parliament resumes and demanding that Rajapaksa resign before then.

Some protesters blocked exits through which the lawmakers tried to leave Parliament and questioned them about what they had achieved for the people in many meetings.

Factories, banks and government offices were also closed Friday, with employees demonstrating in front of them. Black flags were displayed at some shops in response to a call from trade unions and other organisations. Agencies

JOHNSON LOSES 'CROWN JEWELS' IN UK VOTE

LONDON

PRIME Minister Boris Johnson's Conservative party lost control of key councils in London, according to partial results from local and regional UK elections on Friday, with a potentially historic change looming in Northern Ireland.

The main UK opposition Labour party of Keir Starmer won in Tory "crown jewels" in the capital, including Margaret Thatcher's "favourite" council Wandsworth, and Westminster for the first time since it was created in 1964.

Around two-thirds of votes for councils in England have been counted. Full results for Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland are due on Friday evening and over the weekend. The contest for the devolved assembly in Belfast could see a pro-Irish nationalist party win for the first time, with huge constitutional implications for the four-nation UK.

Predicted victors Sinn Fein — the former political wing of paramilitary group the IRA — are committed to a vote on reunification with the Irish republic to the south, a century after the island was partitioned. The English results so far are not a landslide for Labour, which is seeking to capitalise on a cost-of-living crisis and Johnson's own performance, including his unprecedented police fine for attending a lockdown-breaking party at Downing Street.

Johnson called the results "mixed" and said he took responsibility. "We had a tough night in some parts of the country but on the other hand in other parts of the country you are still seeing Conservatives going forward," Johnson told reporters in his constituency on the outskirts of London. AFP

Hopes fade for trapped miners in Burkina Faso

KOUDOUGOU

BURKINA FASO'S government said on Friday that rescue teams were struggling to pump out water from a flooded mine where eight miners have been missing for nearly three weeks. The eight — six Burkinabe, a Zambian and a Tanzanian — were listed as missing when an underground section of the mine flooded on April 16 following heavy rain.

The accident happened at a mine owned by Canada's Trevali Mining at Perkoa, around 100 km west of the capital Ouagadougou.

"The pumping machines that have been set up are operating (too slowly) for our taste, and there is no guarantee on this timescale that we will be able to find them alive as we hope," said government spokesman Lionel Bilgo. He said every effort was being made "to find our eight brothers." A rescue worker said they hope that the eight, who had been working at a depth of 700 metres, had been able to reach a "survival room" located at a depth of 580 metres, that has emergency supplies.

Israel launches massive search for Palestinians who stabbed 3 to death

TEL AVIV

ISRAELI security forces on Friday launched a massive manhunt for two Palestinians suspected of carrying out a stabbing rampage that killed three Israelis in the predominantly ultra-orthodox town of Elad on Israel's Independence Day, the latest in a series of deadly assaults deep inside the country in recent weeks.

Police have launched a massive search operation for the assailants, identified as As'ad Al-Rafa'ani, 19 and Sabhi abu Shakir, 20, both residents of Jenin area in the West Bank, setting up roadblocks and dispatching a helicopter.

The stabbing on Thursday night, Israel's Independence Day, is the seventh such incident in the past 45 days, taking the death toll from such attacks in Israel to 19. It came as Israeli-Palestinian tensions were already heightened by violence at a major holy site in Jerusalem sacred to Jews and Muslims.

On Friday, Israeli police and the Shin Bet security services released the names of the two suspects and said both are residents of Jenin area in West Bank. Jenin and its surrounding areas have witnessed frequent Israeli military raids and clashes between forces and Palestinians in recent weeks.

Eyewitness said the two assailants carried out their attacks in several areas within the city, including in an amphitheatre park and on the main street, where civilians were celebrating Israel's Independence Day on Thursday, a festive national holiday. "Both attackers were armed with sharp weapons, one an axe and the other an axe or a knife," they said.

"One of the wounded was in critical condition and another was in serious condition following the attack. Another person was moderately wounded, and a fourth was lightly wounded,' medics said.

"We will get our hands on the terrorists and their supportive environment, and they will pay the price," Israeli Prime Minister Naftali Bennett warned. The Al-Aqsa Mosque compound situated in Jerusalem's Old City, is the third holiest site in Islam and is built on a hilltop that is the holiest site for Jews, who refer to it as the Temple Mount. It's the heart of the conflict, and Palestinians and Israeli police have clashed there repeatedly in recent weeks. PTI

Saudi-led coalition releases Yemen rebels in peace gesture

RIYADH

THE SAUDI-LED military coalition fighting Yemen's Houthi insurgents announced on Friday it was freeing a batch of rebel prisoners, part of what it says are efforts to end the seven-year war.

Last week the coalition said it would release 163 prisoners it accused of participating in "hostilities" against Saudi Arabia. The official Saudi Press Agency said on Twitter on Friday that process had begun, adding there would be "three stages of air transport of prisoners" to Yemen's Houthi-controlled capital Sanaa and the southern port city of Aden.

It did not say how many prisoners would be let go, but a spokesman for the International Committee said the organisation was "facilitating the transfer of more than 100 Yemeni former detainees from Saudi Arabia to Yemen". The spokesman, Basheer Omar, said there would be three ICRC flights from the Saudi city of Abha to Aden. The conflict pits Yemen's Saudi-backed government, officially based in Aden, against the Iran-aligned Huthis.

It has also featured Houthi strikes on neighbouring Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, another member of the coalition. But a renewable two-month truce that went into effect in early April has provided a rare respite from violence in much of the country, and has seen oil tankers begin arriving at the port of Hodeida, potentially easing fuel shortages in Sanaa and elsewhere. The truce also involved a deal to resume commercial flights out of Sanaa's airport. AFP

LARSEN & TOUBRO (L&T) has put all speculations to rest by announcing the merger of its group companies- L&T Infotech and Mindtree. The new entity will be called LTIMindtree and the deal is expected to close in 9-12 months.

Mindtree CEO Debashis Chatterjee will lead the entity. while L&T Infotech CEO and MD Sanjay Jalona will move on from the firm.

Announcing the merger on Friday, L&T Group Chairman AM Naik said the merger is an excellent proposition for shareholders, as the combined entity to create a size of over $3.5 billion. This merger will help the firm to compete with big players and go for bigger deals-over $100 million.

For now, the companies will continue to function independently. A steering committee will be constituted to oversee the transition till the merger process is complete. The transaction regarding the LTI and Mindtree merger is subject to shareholder and regulatory approvals, the company said.

Naik expects deal sizes of the merged entity to be big and that there may be some overlap in the businesses between Mindtree and L&T Infotech but together they will be strong. "There is no cultural issue between L&T Infotech and Mindtree. They strengthen each other," he said at the press conference.

The merged entity will have a market cap of 1.65 lakh crore and will become the fifth largest IT services provider surpassing Tech Mahindra. The combined total revenue of the company is around $3,513 million and EBIT will be $625 million. Together, cash and investments are around $991 million. In terms of revenue, it will be in the sixth position after Tech Mahindra, which posted $5,111.1 million in revenue in FY21.

Upon the merger coming into effect, shareholders of Mindtree will be issued shares of LTI at the ratio of 73 shares of LTI for every 100 shares of Mindtree. "The new shares of LTI issued will be traded on the NSE and BSE. L&T will hold 68.73 % of LTI after the merger," Mindtree said in its regulatory filings.

L&T took over Mindtree in 2019, and it owns 61% of the IT company. Talking about it, Naik said it was not a hostile takeover. "We were approached by one of the shareholders," he said. Both companies' attrition is nearly 23% and Naik hopes it will come down by 1%.

CONSUMER PRICES RISE AT FASTEST PACE IN 7 YEARS

The rise in the Tokyo core consumer price index (CPI) was faster than a median market forecast for a 1.8% gain and followed a 0.8% increase for March. The index excludes fresh food, which is a volatile factor, but includes energy items. That marked the fastest gain since March 2015, when the index rose 2.2%. In the overall reading, which includes fresh food costs, Tokyo CPI increased 2.5% in April from a year before, the fastest growth since October 2014. The fading effect of cellphone fee cuts last year pushed up the overall CPI by 0.80 points, while non-fresh food prices drove it up by 0.17 points, the data showed. To-go sushi packages, hamburgers and breads saw the biggest price hikes among food items in April, according to a government official. The Bank of Japan (BOJ) last week raised its forecast for this year's inflation rate but kept its ultra-loose monetary policy unchanged, stressing its resolve to maintain massive stimulus until inflationary pressures were accompanied by wage rises and stronger demand.

CHINA

SPIKE IN CORP HEDGING WEIGHS ON SLUMPING YUAN

The yuan's slump has triggered a scramble by Chinese companies to hedge against the risk of further depreciation, which analysts say could add downward pressure on the currency. The yuan's 4% tumble in April, its steepest monthly drop since foreign exchange reforms of 1994, is being driven by portfolio outflows, a rising U.S. dollar and a gloomy economic outlook at home. Lopsided corporate hedging presents yet another risk to the currency as it touched a fresh 18-month low on Friday and jitters swept global markets. exporters' views on what to do with their proceeds are diverging. Wang added, with some converting more dollar revenue to yuan in recent weeks, while others are holding out and betting they can get a better price if the yuan keeps falling. Yuan/dollar forward transactions nearly doubled from a year earlier to 100 billion yuan ($15 billion) in April, official data showed, the heaviest month of trading since late 2017.The data does not show the direction of the bets, but non-deliverable forwards are priced for a steady decline in the yuan over the next year and sentiment suggests businesses are concerned about the global backdrop and are buying dollars.

NEPAL

IMF URGES TO TIGHTEN MONETARY POLICY

Nepal should engage in monetary tightening including interest rate hikes to bolster its dwindling foreign exchange reserves, without resorting to import curbs that could push up prices and hamper economic growth, said a senior IMF official. The government must address inflationary pressures and growing external imbalances while safeguarding the economic recovery, Robert Gregory, head of an IMF team that held week-long discussions with government officials, said in a statement. Nepal, a landlocked country between China and India, has banned luxury goods imports until mid-July to rein in capital outflows as foreign exchange reserves fell over 18% to $9.6 billion as of mid-March from mid-July - enough to last the country around six months. Following a sharp rise in the cost of imports due to soaring global crude oil and other commodity prices after Russia's invasion of Ukraine, Nepal's international reserves "have declined more than anticipated," the IMF statement said. However, a prudent budget, as suggested under its financial support programme, along with monetary tightening would help address the inflationary pressures and growing economic imbalances, the statement said.

Govt asks coal-based plants to run on full capacity

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE power ministry has directed imported coal-based plants to run on full capacity as demand for electricity has gone up by NEARLY 20%.

The ministry, in an official order, also directed all states and power generating companies based on domestic coal to import at least 10% of their requirement for blending.

"The demand for power has gone up by almost 20% in energy terms. The supply of domestic coal has increased but the increase in the supply is not sufficient to meet the increased demand for power. This is leading to load shedding in different areas," reads the order.

"Because of the mismatch between the daily consumption of coal for power generation and the daily receipt of coal at the power plant, the stocks of coal at the power plant has been declining at a worrisome rate."

In order to ensure that all power plants based on imported coal start functioning, the ministry said all states were advised that the price of coal should be a pass through. Most states have done that and nearly 10.000 MW out of 17.600 MW imported coal-based generation capacity has started operating. However, some imported coal-based capacity is still not operating.

The order also said that these plants will supply power in the first instance to the PPA (power purchase agreement) holders. Any surplus power left thereafter or any power for which there is no Power Purchase Agreement (PPA) will be sold on power exchanges.

Meanwhile, coal minister Pralhad Joshi said that the target of the government is to minimise the import of thermal coal and to make the country independent in the sector. While addressing the investor meet in Mumbai, the minister also highlighted that, not long ago, people used to say the need for coal is going to reduce but plants are currently witnessing a surge in coal requirements.

AIPEF urges government to compensate state for importing coal

NEW DELHI: The All India Power Engineers Federation (AIPEF) on Friday urged the government to compensate states for importing coal in absence of adequate dry fuel for thermal plants. It said if they are not provided any financial help, condition of the utilities will deteriorate further. "AIPEF has demanded that Centre compensate each and every state that is being forced to import coal," said AIPEF in a statement. The power ministry, in a letter on April 28, had asked to import 22.049 million tonnes of coal for thermal power stations and 15.936 million tonnes for private sector plants. The federation said forcing states to import coal to bridge the supply-demand gap, "created through sheer mismanagement and lack of anticipation and planning is not appreciable". ENS

In big boost to realty sector, Gujarat HC provides GST relief to homebuyers

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a major relief to the home buyers, the Gujarat High Court on Friday said that actual value of land should be deducted to arrive at GST on cost of construction of a flat.

As per the current GST rules, 1/3rd of total amount charged is deducted to arrive at the cost of construction for the purpose of calculation of tax.

GST is not charged on the sale of land and 1/3rd of the total amount is deemed as value of land, and hence deducted from overall cost of construction of a flat or bungalow.

The Gujarat high court in its order said that the mandatory deduction of 1/3rd for value of land is not sustainable in cases where the value of land is clearly ascertainable or where the value of construction service can be derived with the aid of valuation rules.

The dispute of tax liability arises in cases where land and construction both are the part of transaction.

The court called the mandatory fixing of land value at 1/3rd of the cost of construction as arbitrary which has led to a situation where the measure of tax imposed has no link with the charge of tax which is on supply of construction service.

"This is a big win for the real estate sector against the imposition of GST on arbitrarily computed taxable value which is inclusive of the land parcel," says Rajat Mohan, a New Delhi-based Chartered accountant.

Abhishek Rastogi, partner in law firm Khaitan & co, says, "While similar issues are pending in different states, Gujarat High Court decision will set the trend and the excess tax paid would be refunded at some stage, perhaps after the matter is completely settled by the apex court." It is to be noted here that GST is applicable only on under-construction properties. GST is not charged on a completed project.

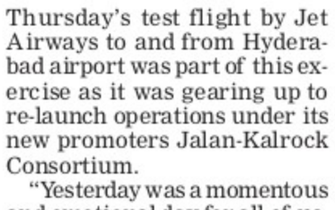
Jet Airways CEO tells staff to keep laser-like focus

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

JET AIRWAYS CEO Sanjiv Kapoor on Friday asked the airline's staff to "maintain laser-like focus" and said "there was no room for complacency" as the airline, which was grounded in April 2019, is all set to return to the skies.

This order fromn the CEO came a day after the airline conducted its test flight to get the air operator certificate (AOC).

Aviation regulator - Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA)- grants operators license to fly their aircraft for commercial purposes after they conduct successful test flights.



Thursday's test flight by Jet Airways to and from Hyderabad airport was part of this exercise as it was gearing up to re-launch operations under its new promoters Jalan-Kalrock Consortium.

"Yesterday was a momentous and emotional day for all of us, with a Jet-registered aircraft flown back in the air after a gap of over years!" Kapoor said in his e-mail to employees. Kapoor said the aircraft has been reborn on its birthday — May 5.

Zomato's Goyal donates ₹700 crore ESOP proceeds to foundation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

Online delivery platform Zomato's co-founder and chief executive officer Deepinder Goyal on Friday announced that he was donating his entire proceeds worth ₹700 crore ($90 million) received after divesting his employee stock option plans (ESOPs) to Zomato Future Foundation (ZFF).

Goyal was granted some ESOPs by Zomato's investors/board based on his past performance, he said in a statement sent to the company employees.

He said 100% of the proceeds of this ESOP vesting cycle are committed toward the foundation. He also explained that to protect the interests of the shareholders and to reap most benefit for the foundation, he doesn't want to liquidate all these shares immediately.

"I do not intend to liquidate these shares immediately, but over the next few years. For the first year, I will liquidate less than 10% of these ESOPs towards this fund," he said.

He added that ZFF is going to be open to donations from other employees of the company and raising other fundraising opportunities for the foundation.

ZEF will cover education cost of up to two children of all delivery partners of Zomato up to ₹50,000 per child annually who have been with the company for more than five years. "The amount will increase to ₹1,00,000 if the delivery partner completes 10 years with us," the note read.

TASK FORCE TO FIND NEW WINDOW

Organising committee, OCA to involve international federations to find desirable dates for the postponed Asian Games

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

THE Asian Games, slated to be held in the Chinese city of Hangzhou from September 10-25, has been indefinitely postponed. The Olympic Council of Asia announced the decision following a meeting. "Considering the impact of the ongoing pandemic and health and safety of the athletes, fans and supporting staff, the OCA Executive Board decided to postpone the 19th Asian Games Hangzhou 2022," the body said on its official social media account.

Randhir Singh, acting Olympic Council of Asia president, explained the circumstances under which they were forced to postpone the event. "We had to take the decision after consulting all stakeholders," he told this newspaper from Tashkent after the meeting. "The organising committee were ready with all infrastructure, because of the pandemic there were a lot of issues, especially there's restrictions on travel."

According to OCA, "The new dates will be announced after they are upon between the Olympic Council of Asia, the Chinese Olympic Committee and the Hangzhou Asian Games Organising Committee." Singh said that on a later date all stakeholders would have a meeting on this. "We have to form a task force and in consultation with the organising committee, Chinese Olympic Committee, their government and international federation we will have find a desirable slot," said Singh. He, however, said there is not such discussion on September next year as a slot.

While there was a possibility of hosting the event in a so called 'closed loop' system (a bio-bubble like environment, similar to how China held the Winter Games in Beijing in early 2022), the organisers have decided that will not be feasible considering the sheer scale of the event, second in size to the Olympics among all multi-discipline competitions. Even if other multi-discipline events have been held amid the pandemic — the Commonwealth Games in Birmingham in July-August is scheduled to go ahead as it stands — the decision to postpone the Asian Games is a direct consequence of China's zero-Covid policy.

Break offers athletes respite

Some of the athletes, at least from an Indian perspective, may quietly cheer the postponement because there is now a much-needed break in the calendar. Earlier, Indian athletes were facing the prospect of a loaded calendar including the Commonwealth and the Asian Games within the space of 45 days. Apart from that, there are also World Championship, World Cups and continental championships to consider. Take for instance, the cases of Tokyo 2020 Olympic champion Neeraj Chopra, steeplechase athlete Avinash Sable and the women's hockey team. Earlier, the former's calendar read World Championships (July 21-23, Eugene), Commonwealth Games (August 1st week, Birmingham) and Asian Games (September). Peaking in three big events across three time zones within 70 days was going to be a big ask.

"It would be a big challenge for athletes competing in world championships, CWG and the Asian Games," said Athletics Federation of India president Adille Sumariwalla. "Challenge would have been in the gap between CWG and the Asian Games. Even with double periodisation maintaining form could have been tough." For athletics at least he felt it was a blessing in disguise. "Athletics give the maximum medals in Asian Games so it's important for us," he said. So the senior nationals in June would be trials for world championships and CWG.

However, one needs to see what slot the 2022 Asian Games will find. With qualifying events, including World Championships in that cycle, carrying Olympic quota places, IFs need to get involved to not clash events.

Observation of lunar soil brought back by China's Chang'e 5 spacecraft has shown that soil on the moon contains active compounds that can convert carbon dioxide into oxygen and fuels, according to scientists.

GPS satellites orbiting the Earth may be more effective in detecting tsunamis, and much faster than the seismic sensors, finds a study. The method could serve as an effective warning system, UK researchers said

Some antigen tests insensitive to virus variants, says US study

COVID

BOSTON: While the rapid antigen tests remain a useful tool for the detection of Covid-19 infections, some of these diagnostic kits may be less sensitive to the variants of concern, according to a US study.

Scientists at the Harvard T H Chan School of Public Health and Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in the US noted that the rapid tests were developed for use with the original SARS-CoV-2 viral strain that emerged late in 2019. Since then, the virus has evolved countless times, and several viral variants of concern have emerged, including the highly infectious Delta and Omicron variants that swept across the world last summer and winter respectively.

In the study published in the Journal of Clinical Microbiology, the researchers used live virus culture to assess how well four rapid antigen tests are able to detect these Covid-19 variants of concern. "Unlike the sensitive molecular tests that detect multiple SARS-CoV-2 genes, rapid antigen tests target a single viral protein," said study co-corresponding author James Kirby.

"As the pandemic continues, however, some hypothesise that the performance of available antigen test may vary among the Covid variants of concern," Kirby said.

Using three strains of cultured live virus, the team assessed differences in the limits of detection of four commercially available rapid antigen tests; the Binax, CareStart, GenBody and LumiraDx tests. The researchers found all four tests were as sensitive to the Omicron variant, if not more, as they were to original SARS-CoV-2 viral strain, as WA1.

INBREEDING WON'T DOOM THE LAST OF THE VAQUITAS, BUT FISHING MIGHT

Vaquita porpoises are on the edge of extinction, with just 10 left in their sole habibat within Mexico's Gulf of California. However, a new study published on Thursday in the journal Science offers some hope: the world's rarest marine mammals aren't doomed by a lack of genetic diversity, and can recover if illegal "gillnet" fishing ceases immediately

WHAT ARE PORPOISES?

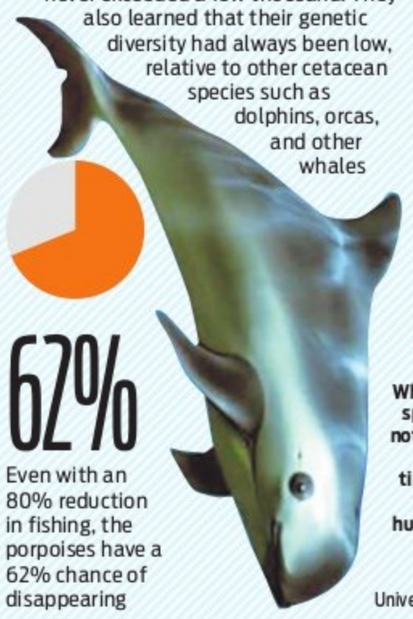
Porpoises are closely related to dolphins, and share many things in common including great intelligence

BIG FALL IN VAQUITA POPULATION

Vaquita numbers were decimated in the 20th century as a result of being accidentally trapped and drowning in gillnets: long walls of nets hanging in open water that are used to catch fish and shrimp

THE RESEARCH

Researchers analysed the genomes of 20 vaquitas that lived between 1985 and 2017, and discovered that over the past 2,50,000 years their population had never exceeded a few thousand. They also learned that their genetic diversity had always been low, relative to other cetacean species such as dolphins, orcas, and other whales



62%

Even with an 80% reduction in fishing, the porpoises have a 62% chance of disappearing

BENEFITS TO LOW GENETIC DIVERSITY

Inbreeding increases the chances offspring will inherit two copies of harmful mutations, leading to genetic disorders. But it turned out that the frequency of these mutations are very low in vaquitas to begin with, because the population has always been small

While we now know that the species' ability to recover is not limited by their genetics, vaquitas have very little time left. If we lose them, it would be the result of our human choices, not inherent genetic factors

Christopher Kyriazis of the University of California, Los Angeles

570 VAQUITAS

The vaquita's historical abundance was unknown, but by the time of the first survey, in 1997, only around 570 remained. There were fears that harmful mutations among the surviving vaquitas could seal the species' fate due to inevitable inbreeding

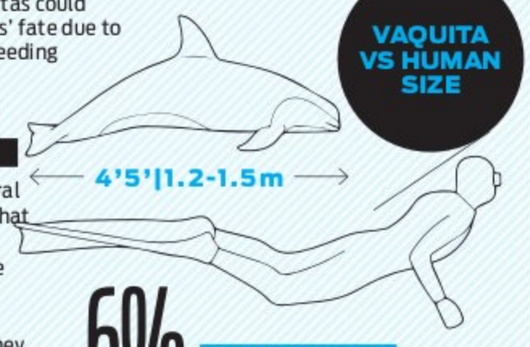
OTHER SPECIES

There are several other species that appear more resistant to the so-called "inbreeding depression". They include endangered mountain gorillas found in mostly in Africa and narwhals

VAQUITA PORPOISES

The vaquita, whose name means "little cow" in Spanish, measures four to five feet in length, making it the smallest of all cetaceans. Shy and elusive, they are known for distinctive dark circles around their eyes, and relatively large dorsal fins, which are thought to help them dissipate heat in their warm habitat

VAQUITA VS HUMAN SIZE



6% CHANCE OF EXTINCTION

There is only a six per cent chance of vaquitas' extinction if gillnet fishing is eliminated. But if such fishing is only reduced, then the extinction risk rises drastically

US restricts use of J&J vaccine

FDA cites ongoing risk of serious blood clot

COVID

NEW YORK: Regulators in the United States have strictly limited who can receive Johnson & Johnson's Covid-19 vaccine due to the ongoing risk of rare but serious blood clots.

The Food and Drug Administration said the shot should only be given to adults who cannot receive a different vaccine or specifically request Johnson & Johnson's vaccine. US authorities for months have recommended that Americans get Pfizer or Moderna shots instead of J&J's vaccine.

FDA's vaccine chief Dr Peter Marks said the agency decided to restrict the vaccine after taking another look at the data on the risks of life-threatening blood clots and concluding that they are limited to Johnson & Johnson's vaccine.

"If there's an alternative that appears to be equally effective in preventing severe outcomes from Covid-19, we'd rather see people opting for that," Marks said. "But we've been careful to say that — compared to no vaccine — this is still a better option." The problem occurs in the first two weeks after vaccination, he added: "So if you had the vaccine six months ago, you can sleep soundly tonight knowing this isn't an issue."

The FDA authorised J&J's shot in February last year for adults 18 and up.

The vaccine was initially considered an important tool in fighting the pandemic because it required only one shot. But the single-dose option proved less effective than two doses of the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines.

Plant-based jab 70% effective

COVID

NEW YORK: A new plant-based Covid-19 vaccine is nearly 70 per cent effective against symptomatic disease caused by five variants of the coronavirus, according to results of the human clinical trial of the preventive. The vaccine developed by researchers at Canadian biotechnology company Medicago contains coronavirus-like particles (CoVLP) produced in plants which are combined with an adjuvant (ASO3) that helps vaccines work better. The phase 3 trial of the vaccine was conducted at 85 centres involving 24,141 adults who were randomly assigned to receive two intramuscular injections of either the CoVLP+AS03 vaccine or placebo 21 days apart. The study, published in the New England Journal of Medicine (NEJM), shows that the vaccine efficacy was 69.5 per cent against any symptomatic Covid-19 caused by five variants.

UK to force Big Tech to give users more choice

TECH

LONDON: Big tech companies like Google and Facebook parent Meta would have to comply with tough British rules under a new digital watchdog aimed at giving consumers more choice online or face the threat of big fines.

The UK government on Friday outlined the powers it's planning for its Digital Markets Unit, a regulator set up last year to take on the dominance of tech giants. It didn't specify when the rules would take effect, saying only that legislation would come "in due course." Authorities in Britain and across Europe have been leading the global push to clamp down on tech companies amid rising concern about their outsised influence and harmful material on their platforms.

The new UK watchdog would enforce rules that make it easier for people to switch between iPhones and Android devices or between social media accounts without losing their data and messages. The government's digital department said smartphone users would get a wider choice of search engines and more control over how their data is used. Tech companies would have to warn small companies that do much of their business online about changes to algorithms that could affect their web traffic and revenue.

The watchdog also would get the power to solve pricing disputes between online platforms and news publishers to ensure media companies get paid fairly for their content, the government said. Tech companies would face fines worth up to 10% of their annual global revenue for breaking the rules.

European Union too set to tighten rules

The 27-nation bloc's Digital Services Act will require big tech companies to police their platforms more strictly for harmful or illegal content and services, while its Digital Markets Act is aimed at reining in online "gatekeepers"

VIRUS IN PIG HEART USED IN HUMAN TRANSPLANT

HEALTH

NEW YORK: Researchers trying to learn what killed the first person to receive a heart transplant from a pig have discovered the organ harboured an animal virus but cannot yet say if it played any role in the man's death.

A Maryland man, 57-year-old David Bennett Sr, died in March, two months after the groundbreaking experimental transplant. University of Maryland doctors said on Thursday they found an unwelcome surprise viral DNA inside the pig heart.

They did not find signs that this bug, called porcine cytomegalovirus, was causing an active infection.

But a major worry about animal-to-human transplants is the risk that it could introduce new kinds of infections to people. Because some viruses are "latent," meaning they lurk without causing disease, "it could be a hitchhiker," Dr Bartley Griffith, the surgeon who performed Bennett's transplant, told The Associated Press.

Still, development is under way of more sophisticated tests to "make sure that we don't miss these kinds of viruses," added Dr Muhammad Mohiuddin, scientific director of the university's xenotransplant program.

ASTRONAUTS BACK AFTER ISS SOJOURN

SpaceX brought four astronauts home with a midnight splashdown in the Gulf of Mexico on Friday, capping the busiest month yet for Elon Musk's taxi service. The three US astronauts and one German in the capsule were bobbing off the Florida coast, near Tampa, less than 24 hours after leaving the ISS. Barely five hours after splashdown, the company founded by Musk launched another batch of its own internet satellites known as Starlinks. NASA is more impressed than ever, given SpaceX's hectic pace of late.

A poet is born

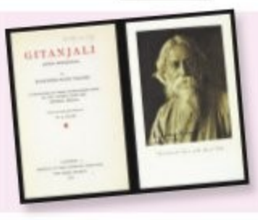
LITERARY FIGURE

As author of Gitanjali, and as the first Asian to win the Nobel Prize in Literature, Tagore was perhaps the most widely regarded Indian literary figure of all time



MODERNISING ART

Tagore modernised Bengali art by spurning rigid classical forms. His novels, stories, songs, dance-dramas, and essays spoke to political and personal topics

NATIONAL ANTHEM

The song, Jana-gana-mana, composed originally in Bengali by Tagore, was adopted in its Hindi version by the Constituent Assembly as the National Anthem of India on January 24, 1950

Dhananjay's next film to release on May 20

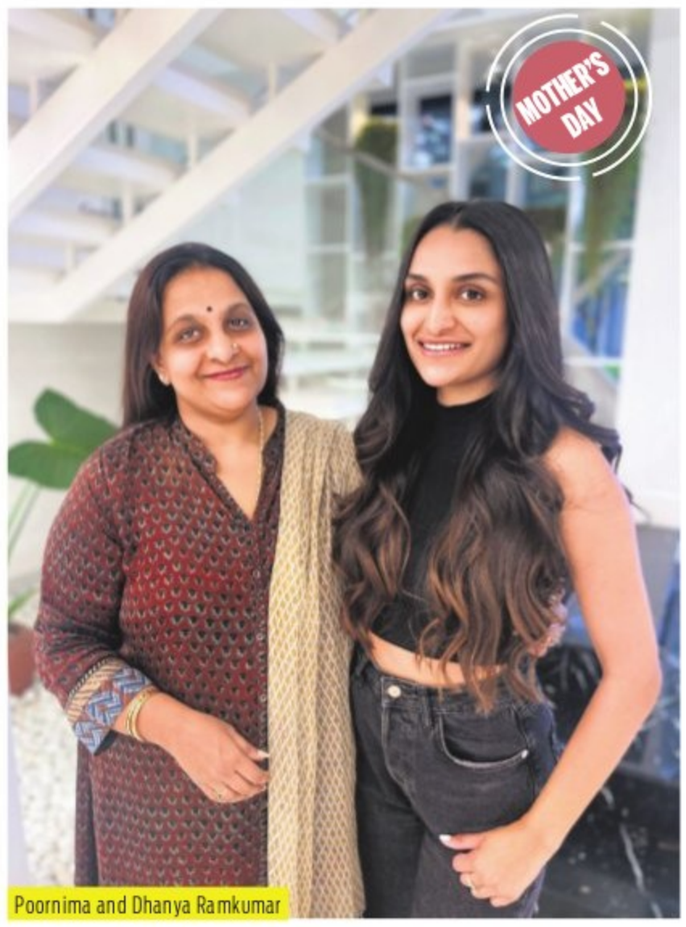
Her biggest supporter and strongest critic...actor Dhanya Ramkumar bares it all about her relationship with her mother, Poornima Ramkumar, who is the daughter of late actor Dr Rajkumar



Poornima and Dhanya Ramkumar

'WE HAVE REACHED A BALANCED SPACE'

MONIKA MONALISA

CAN'T live with each other, can't live without each other— this pretty much sums up actor Dhanya Ramkumar's relationship with her mother Poornima, daughter of late actor Dr Rajkumar. However, Dhanya immediately clarifies the present situation... "Now, it's more of 'I can't live without her'," Dhanya says, while Poornima smiles on.

> My mother has gone through a lot and obviously, she didn't want me to make the same mistakes. Growing up, I used to rebel a lot and that troubled her
>
> Dhanya Ramkumar, actor

Calling herself a rebel during her teens, Dhanya (25), recalls several heated arguments with Poornima (53) just like any other mother-daughter duo. "During my teenage years, Mom and I used to fight quite a bit... There were always disagreements. She has gone through a lot and obviously, didn't want me to make the same mistakes. Little did I understand that during that time. I used to rebel and that troubled her. Now, when I look back, I feel bad," recalls Dhanya, adding that she was glad that her mother always looked out for her. Now, if they don't put an issue to rest by bedtime, Dhanya finds it unsettling. "I have also grown up and we have reached a balanced space," she says.

Coming from a family, considered the first family of Sandalwood, Poornima — who never entered the movie industry — knew the repercussions of limelight. "I, honestly, didn't have too much of a plan to enter the film industry and neither did my mum push me. But when I decided to, she was prepared for the route I chose," says Dhanya, whose upcoming movie is Kaala Patthar, in which her character's name is Ganga. Although she decided to give acting a shot, considering it runs in her genes, her father, actor-producer Ramkumar, was initially against it. But her mother's support was rock solid, which she is ever-grateful for.

Biggest cheerleader and toughest critic. Poornima plays this role in Dhanya's life. "Since she completed her Class 10, she has been very independent. It makes me very proud. Despite a hectic schedule, she makes time for family, which feels great," says Poornima, as Dhanya gets emotional.

> Ever since Dhanya completed her Class 10, she has been very independent. It makes me very proud. Despite a hectic schedule, she makes time for family, which is great
>

Namaskara Janare

I have always maintained that our good old Indian way of greeting people with folded hands was a great idea. When Cardi-B came along, the virus sat waiting patiently as we shook (unwashed) hands, while it merrily transported itself onto another (unwitting) host! We are a tropical country where our national pastime is to sweat, spit and wee incessantly. So, logically and hygienically speaking, a namaskara is the best option! Not only can we flout our 'Indianess' but we can make all the misogynist fringe groupshappy at our lady-like demureness!

I was nursing a twisted knee and many bruises after my fall, and being in constant pain is not on my agenda. Many a head was bitten off when a silly question was asked at work and I got the hint to rest out my injuries at home when I got a 'get well soon card' from my colleagues while I was still at work! With both my ego and body battered and bruised I decided to take it easy, until I realised that staying at home was far more exhausting! I have often expounded at my lecture-seminars (very often banging on the speaker's podium for effect), that a woman's work is never done. I couldn't be more right! Whenever a woman leaves her home to work, a vacuum is formed that never fills up. Maybe a temporary substitute for some time but the bulk of the 'work' is still pending, including giving detailed instructions to the nanny, cook and sundry who 'pretend' to help you! Straight after my fall, I was checked for serious injuries by my hubby and son and on finding out there were no broken bones, I was gently steered into the kitchen to complete the important task of feeding the brood! Emancipation is truly a fickle word that has many interpretations.

Malavika Sarukkai and Anitha Rathnam

During the lockdown with no cultural or artistic stimulation, my brain and soul (only an artiste will understand my angst), felt dry and parched like a desert. So it was with was with a spring in my step and a song in my heart that I entered the cool dark auditorium at BIC, (something I hadn't done in two years) to revel and listen to scholars, world-class artistes, historians and enablers exploring the concept of 're-imagining re-generating and re-activating' the concept of performing arts. My dear friend Madhu Natraj, the daughter of the famed Kathak dancer and choreographer Dr Maya Rao, is in my eyes the best 'enabler' of performing arts. Just to hear danseuses like Malavika Sarukkai and Anitha Rathnam, stalwarts who held forth on the essence of dance and the connection to the soul was thrilling. But when Malavika shared, what she had read scratched on the side of a mighty oak tree... "I was once a seed that stood its ground"...I knew I was home!

This week, I was determined to do what pleased me. I even backed out of a highfalutin Consulate dinner because my body said 'No'! But celebrating my good friend's birthday at Navu Project, a fabulous contemporary bistro run by my good friend Kainishka Sharma, was a ball. 'Girls just wanna have fun!' And yes! We did bring the house down.

Don't count the things that you did. Do the things that count.

1. As the city sees a lot of fun new places launch, let's do a quick round up of what's happening! We heard of an iconic place coming to Malleswaram, which turned out to be not quite what the foodies expected – but still a treat for the arts. Which place are we talking about, and what is actually coming to Malleswaram?

2. This place in Jayanagar is one-of-a-kind, promoting slow sustainable living, designed to bring a sense of calm in the otherwise hectic bustle of the city. Their menu is sustainable, sourcing locally and they also host artists in their gallery spaces. Do you know what's the name of this restaurant?

3. This very popular British chef who has had several TV shows and written cook books, recently launched his pizzeria in Bengaluru. Can you name the chain launched, and the TV show that he was first known for?

Dhananjay's Twenty One Hours to release on May 20

The neo-noir thriller, directed by Jai Shankar, is a bilingual film made in Kannada and Malayalam

CE FEATURES

ACTOR Dhananjay, who was last seen in Badava Rascal, has a slew of films getting ready for release this year, and the first one to hit the theatres will be his Kannada-Malayalam Bilingual Twenty One Hours. The film is set to be out on May 20.

The neo-noir thriller, directed by Jai Shankar, centres around a case of a missing Malayali-speaking woman in Bengaluru. Dhananjay plays the rugged cop investigating this case. The film stars Durga Krishna, Sudev Nair, Rahul Madhav, Apoorva Bharadwaj, Poorna Chandra, and Dinesh Baboo.

Meanwhile, Dhananjay has completed shooting Head Bush, which is now in the post-production stage. His lineup of upcoming films includes Monsoon Raaga, Bairagee, Thotapuri, and Once Upon a Time in Jamaliguda. Meanwhile, the actor is gearing up to begin shooting for his 25th film, Hoysala.

Team Twenty One Hours at the trailer launch

An efficient experimental film

MAN OF THE MATCH

Cast: Nataraj S Bhat, Dharmanna Kadur, Shridatta, Mayuri Nataraj, Atharva Prakash, Brunda Vikram

Director: D Satya Prakash

Streaming: Amazon Prime

A SHARADHAA

ON this stage, we assume everything is beautiful', this meaningful line of a song penned and sung by Vasuki Vaibhav in Man of the Match aptly captures the essence of the entire film. Directed by D Satya Prakash, the maker of Rama Rama Re and Ondalla Eradalla, who is popularly known for his slice of life dramas, has now attempted an experimental and satirical comedy.

The plot is about an audition for a film directed by Nata (Nataraj S Bhat) and backed by Dharmanna productions (Dharmanna Kadur). Things eventually turn chaotic. The director, instead of exploring the true acting potential of young talents, starts using their personal lives for the plot of the film. Will he eventually get the taste of his own medicine? Who will become the Man of the Match? The rest of the film answers these questions. It also makes social commentary on gender equality, shortcuts to fame, survival in the competitive world, and positive and negative aspects of human behaviour. However, the film's focus is on these individuals' lives and the sadistic nature of humans.

RATING 3/5

Except for a few known actors like Nataraj, Dharmanna Kadur, Veena, and Sundar, the film stars many newcomers Shridatta, Mayuri Nataraj, Atharva Prakash, Brunda Vikram, which has helped the director to bring out the real talent. Songs by Vasuki Vaibhav are meaningful and stand out. Man of Match gives a reality check on how technology has invaded an individual's life. The film backed by PRK Productions is streaming on Amazon Prime.

Comic relief with a black twist

AVATARA PURUSHA

Cast: Sharan, Ashika Ranganath, Sai Kumar, Srinagar Kitty, Bhavya, Sudharani, Ashutosh Rana, and Balaji Manohar

Director: Suni

A SHARADHAA

DIRECTOR Suni, known for his romcoms, has gone in for a unique attempt less explored on the silver screen. Starring Sharan, Avatara Purusha is a regular comedy but with elements of black magic. With insights into Indian mythology, Trishanku, and rituals of Vaamachara, the film makes up for a true escape from the regular films. Avatara Purusha will be out in two parts, and part one focuses on Ashta Digbandana Mandalaka.

RATING 3/5

Karna, the son of Ayurveda Pandit Ram Jois (Saikumar) and Susheela (Bhavya), goes missing while he is on a temple trip with his aunt Yashoda (Sudharani). This creates a rift between Yashoda and Ram Jois's family. Siri (Ashika Ranganath), Yoshodha's daughter, learns about the issue and comes to India to mend the broken family bond. Her only way to do this is to find Karna. During her attempt, she meets Junior artiste Anila (Sharan), who is a good fit for her plans. Anila becomes Karna and manages to convince Susheela but not Ram Jois. What ensues makes up for a roller coaster ride.

A parallel narrative shows the Jois family's long battle to protect the powerful Trishanku stone from getting into the hands of Dharka (Ashutosh Rana) and Hinnudi (Balaji Manohar). Kumara's entry into the Jois family, their connection with Trishanku bead, and the black magic world set up the stage for Part 2.

Praise goes to Suni, the director and writer of Avatara Purusha, for perfectly blending comedy and thriller elements in this seemingly family drama.

Rich production design and an interesting star cast are other factors that work for the film. Sharan has proved his versatility once again. Joining him are well-known actors Sai Kumar, Ashutosh Rana, Balaji Manohar, Suresha B, Bhavya, Sudharani, and Vijay Chendoor among others.

Ashika Ranganath has good screen space and she justifies her presence. Srinagar Kitty's short and strong role makes an impact as we look forward to see more of him in Part 2. Even though Sadhu Kokila's role is a bit irrelevant to the story, his presence brings humour.

Cinematographer William David rightly sets the mood for the film. Meanwhile, Arjun Janya elevates the overall film with his background score accompanied by good songs. If you're looking for something different, Suni-Sharan's Avatara Purusha fits the bill!
